

Legacy of Luke—A Physician Seeks the True Facts

Editor's Note: The joyous Christmas story known today the world over might have been lost forever had it not been for one man. His name was Luke. He alone among the gospel writers recorded the dramatic and inspiring scenes of the Annunciation, the trip to Bethlehem, the manger, the shepherds. This is the first in a series of six articles about Luke and his legacy to the hundreds of millions who celebrate the birth of Christ. The stories are based on history, ancient church traditions, Scripture and the implications of these sources.

The story had not been told. It lay hidden out there somewhere in the autumn-tinted hills of Galilee and Judea where Jesus had grown up, lived, taught and died, but no one had ever set down just how it all began.

Luke was determined to find out. The task would not be easy.

Jesus had been crucified nearly 30 years before. All kinds of unreliable tales about him, fabrications and fancies, were in circulation. Luke wanted the truth.

An urbane, lettered Greek physician of about 40, Loukas, familiarly called Luke, was a convert from paganism to "the way" of Christ. He had become an aide and traveling companion of the missionary, Paul.

All during their journeys of teaching, organizing congregations and treating the sick, in Troas, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth and elsewhere, Luke felt the need for a full account of his new faith.

So far, intriguing questions about its origin remained unanswered.

Luke, by instinct, by his characteristic Greek curiosity for detail, by his historical bent, by his training in the scientific method of observation, experiment and verification, insisted on the particulars.

What were the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Lord

Jesus? Had his mother been aware of anything extraordinary? What were her feelings? Where, exactly, did it happen? Who was in attendance? How had God become man? Were there any unusual signs?

Luke gazed out at the sunlit harbor of Caesarea, at the array of Roman triremes, Phoenician sailing ships and other vessels rocking quietly in the still, dark waters.

He would have to seek out the information himself.

Others, who had greater opportunity, had not done so. Their notes, recollections and journals covered many events and part of the background—but not all of it.

Significant gaps remained—about the beginnings, the roots, the very fundaments of the mighty promise bestowed on mankind.

Luke frowned and shook his head.

The old apostle, Matthew, didn't consider it essential, nor did John, another of the venerable 11. John had not yet written his gospel, and wouldn't mention the specific points when he did. Mark's gospel, already written, didn't have the material either.

It was up to Luke to get it. If he didn't, the world would never know.

He stood at the open doorway of the small dispensary he had set up in Caesarea, and fingered the medical emblem hanging at his neck, the entwined serpents of the Greek god of healing, Asclepius.

A smile touched his lips. The whole, absurd pantheon of healthdeities had been swept from his thinking, by the clarity of Christ, but the traditional old symbol still served to assure patients of his medical qualifications.

Luke had studied, probably either at the school of Cos, or Rhodes or Tarsus, the native city of Paul, who called him the "beloved physician." Like all educated Greeks, Luke had sung in choruses, acted in dramas, could recite Homer.

He likely had perused Strabo's many-volumed geography, as indicated.

Council Approves City Pay Boosts

Pay raises were handed 41 city employees and two elected officials last night as the last acts of a "lame duck" City Council.

The raises will increase the city's annual payroll by about $14,000. Wages were boosted for City Solicitor Robert Huffer, City Treasurer Everett Stocklen, nine firemen, 11 policemen, Service Department employees and 10 employees of the water and sewage treatment departments.

These salary boosts are in addition to the increases approved for City Councilmen and the President of Council a month ago.

The salary of the city solicitor was cut $200 during the session. Last week the salary in the ordinance was set at $3,800 annually, but last night by amendment the solons chopped it to $3,600.

Formerly the wage for solicitor was $2,400 a year. The assistant solicitor, who is city prosecutor, received $1,440 also. Since Huffer plans to fill both jobs the cost to the city is actually reduced $240.

Other new salaries OK'd by the lawmakers are treasurer, from $500 to $600 a year; all policemen, with the exception of the chief, get a $10 monthly boost; firemen get increases as high as $25 a month; Service Department employees get hourly rate boosts ranging from 25 cents an hour for foremen to 20 cents an hour for laborers; while employees of the Water and Sewage Treatment Departments will get annual wage boosts of from $360 to $300.

NEW SALARY for councilmen will be $600 a year as compared to the current $300 salary. The same wage scale applies to the president of Council.

Council looked at all city wages before coming up with the pay increases. However, the solons were asked to OK a wage boost for Health Department employees last night and they tabled it. The Board of Health has not asked officially for the boosts, since there has not been a quorum at the Health Board meeting for some time.

Two other wage measures received Council's approval last night. One set the hourly wage rate for special policemen at $1.40 per hour and the other set overtime hourly rates for firemen at $1.25 per hour.

Stassen Hints He'll Try for Governorship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Stassen appears about ready to quit his job as White House disarmament aide to plunge into a bid for governor of Pennsylvania.

The 50-year-old Republican, who once was governor of Minnesota, reportedly hasn't made a final decision that now is the time to end his nearly five-year stint with the Eisenhower administration. But his friends believe he will make this decision soon.

A new sign that Stassen is moving in that direction came Monday night when he disclosed he has written GOP chairman in all of Pennsylvania's 67 counties informing them he is seriously considering seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the primary next May 20.

Previous indications that Stassen might run have received a chilly reception from Republican party leaders in Pennsylvania. In some cases, the reaction has been one of downright hostility.

Stassen, a legal resident of Valley Forge for the last 10 years, was president of the University of Pennsylvania when President Eisenhower picked him to head the foreign aid program at the outset of Eisenhower's first term. Later, he moved to his present post as Eisenhower's disarmament adviser.

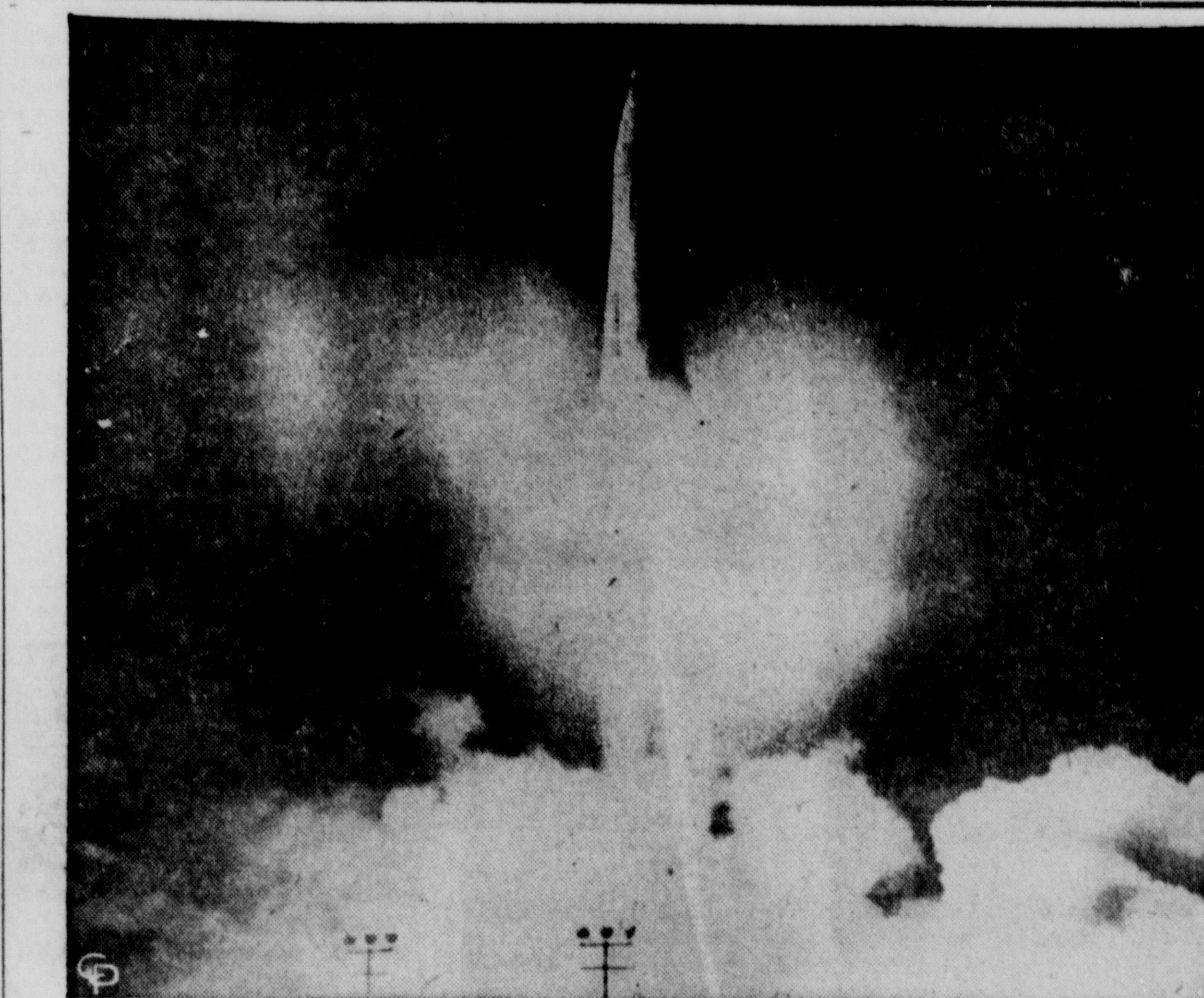

Ever since Stassen failed in his campaign to dump Vice President Nixon from the Republican ticket last year, his political backers in the administration have been few.

Taft Memorial Building Starts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cornerstone to the $1 million Robert A. Taft Memorial Bell Tower will be set in place after Congress convenes, probably in March.

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) made this estimate today. He is chairman of the Physical Memorial Committee of the Robert A. Taft Memorial Foundation.

Workmen now are completing the job of driving about 90 steel piles into bedrock as supports for the tall structure near the Capitol that will honor the late Ohio Republican senator.

ATLAS PASSES TEST — Roaring from its launching pad in Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Atlas intercontinental missile heads for a target out in the Atlantic in its first successful firing. Ohio Idle List Tops 100,000

Leveling-Off Signs Seen in BUC Tally

COLUMBUS (AP)—The number of Ohioans collecting jobless benefits has nudged above the 100,000 mark, the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today. But there were leveling-off signs.

As of last Saturday, the BUC's weekly report shows, the number of claimants unemployed for one week or more was 100,029. That is an increase of 7,337 above the previous week's total of 92,692.

The encouraging signs were in such steel centers as Warren and Steubenville where the number of claims for continuing benefits showed slight decreases and in Youngstown, a major steel center, where there was only a slight increase.

One-third of last week's increase in continuing claims was in Cleveland which reported a jump of more than 2,800 to a total of 20,369 now drawing unemployment compensation checks.

BOTH CINCINNATI and the Canton area showed increases of about 600 and Akron's and Dayton's increases were slightly more than 500. Columbus' increase was about 350 and Toledo's slightly more than 100.

The totals of continuing claims dropped, some only slightly, at Coshocton, Defiance, East Liverpool, Potosi, Hamilton, Ironton, St. Marys, Salem and Springfield. New claims filed last week numbered 22,894. This would indicate that about 15,000 Ohioans either returned to their old jobs or found new ones during the week.

White Wings, Arise!!

Eagle-eared Councilman William Wyatt last night deftly corrected an ordinance which was up for passage.

He listened intently as the ordinance on wage increases for the Service Department was read. Among the items was an increase for the broom operator by inserting the word "power" in front of the word "broom."

Said Wyatt, "It is not a serious error now, but it may become so."

Farm Harvest Ties Record, Although Acreage Is Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers may wonder if there is any way to get away from overproduction of crops.

They were informed Tuesday by the Agriculture Department's final production report of 1957 that this year's harvest ties a record first set in 1948 and matched in 1956, although the acreage used was the smallest since 1919.

The big crop volume adds some new surpluses to complicate production programs for 1958.

The harvest would appear likely to sharpen demands for new farm programs—either ones that would tighten production controls or provide lower prices to open up larger markets.

The 1957 crop production reflected American agriculture's continually growing efficiency—that is, more pounds, bushels, or bales are produced on a given acre of land. There are no indications that this efficiency has reached its peak.

PRODUCTION this year was featured by a bountiful output of feed grains and forage crops—essential raw materials for production of meats, dairy and poultry products. This harvest may well lead to a big increase next year in hogs, poultry and milk with price problems for producers.

The department's final report of the year estimated the 1957 corn crop at 3,402,832,000 bushels and the wheat crop at 947,102,000 bushels.

The corn figure is 70,297,000 bushels more than the November forecast 3,332,535,000. It compares also with last year's revised estimate of 3,455,283,000 bushels and with 3,120,484,000 for the 10-year (1946-55) average.

The wheat estimate is 19,778,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 927,324,000 and compares with last year's total of 1,004,272,000 and 1,131,000,000 for the 10-year average.

The department listed these 1957 crop figures for Ohio (harvested acreage and average yield, and indicated important crops this year compared with last year's revised estimate):

Corn—3,343,000 acres harvested; 54 bushels per acre; 180,522,000 bushels produced this year, 215,700,000 last year.

Winter wheat—1,495,000 acres harvested; 22 bushels per acre; 32,890,000 bushels this year and 39,676,000 last year.

Oats—1,112,000 acres harvested; 38 bushels per acre; 42,256,000 bushels this year and 47,343,000 last year.

Soybeans for beans—1,421,000 acres harvested; 23 bushels per acre; 32,683,000 bushels this year and 31,224,000 last year.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Maurice Chavigny, accused of slaying a retired general, 64, and the general's wife, 61, a former Zanesville, Ohio, woman, broke down and sobbed in court Tuesday.

Chavigny, 44, a good looking Frenchman, is charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds and Mrs. McReynolds at their fashionable St. Petersburg home April 3.

Although he was his chauffeur he also was on very friendly terms with both of them.

The general's sister, Miss Lavonne McReynolds, testified to visit the three of them made to her home in Fort Lauderdale. She said Mrs. McReynolds and Chavigny also visited there separately.

She was asked what Mrs. McReynolds' attitude toward Chavigny was during early visits.

"I think she treated him rather like a son," Miss McReynolds told the jury. "She looked after his wants and even told him what clothes to wear."

Lorin S. Meredith, who lives across the street from the McReynolds home, testified he heard shouting from that house the night of April 3.

He testified that Chavigny said: "You have been playing with me, my darling. Now it is finished—finished." Then came 8 shots.

Allies Ask New Effort At Arms Pact

Softening of American Attitude on Russia Brings Accord in Paris

PARIS (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings, agreed today to base U. S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the Allied summit conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

The allies gave approval Tuesday to a guarded exploration of the latest Soviet bids for an East-West summit conference.

Many European leaders feel that until they have publicly stated that they have exhausted all possible avenues toward an East-West settlement opened up by the Kremlin, they cannot convince their people of the need to station U. S. missiles on their soil.

Having been assured of the softening of the U. S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

THE DECISION was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a later session. The ministerial meeting opened the third day of the NATO summit talks.

Off came the coat. "No, no," warned Coty as Ike began peeling off his coat. "Don't take your coat off here. It's cold."

"Thank you, Mr. President," replied Eisenhower, "but I'm all right."

Off came the coat. An ambulance stood by the building.

Officials said an ambulance was usually at the palace for big dinners and receptions, but seldom for such small luncheons as today's.

Eisenhower's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, preceded the President to the palace as he did Tuesday night.

Ever since Eisenhower arrived his health has rivaled the momentous world problems for newsmen's attention.

MANY OF THE correspondents covering the summit meetings are devoting most or almost all their time to reporting how the President is getting along.

Eisenhower's health is the subject of rumors of all kinds.

To all inquiries, both Snyder and press secretary James C. Hagerty have an almost never-varying reply: The President is "fine" or "very fine."

The President's every appearance and move are studied conscientiously by reporters.

In some pictures the President looks well, in others not. His features are highly mobile, and a tired-out look one second gives way in the next moment to a hearty, healthy smile.

Police Seeking State Mental Clinic Patient

COLUMBUS (AP)—Police are looking for Fred Durr, 46, of Columbus, who escaped from authorities returning him to the state mental hospital after a trial visit to his home Tuesday.

They said Durr is armed with a shotgun and "extremely dangerous," having slightly wounded his son Marvin, 19, in the arm when the son tried to disarm him.

Flight of Atlas Said 600 Miles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Air Force Atlas missile flew more than 600 miles out over the Atlantic on its first long-distance test flight Tuesday and attained an altitude of 80 miles or more, informed sources said today at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Although the missile was designed to fly 5,000 miles and reach an altitude of 600 miles, it reportedly was set for the test flight to go only about 400 miles.

The missile flew faster, higher and farther than planned.

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center here, reported after the flight that nothing could be said of the mission beyond the official Defense Department release.

The release said the missile flew a prescribed course over a "limited range test of several hundred miles" and landed in a pre-selected impact area.

Yates said the missile was not recovered and no attempt would be made to recover it.

He declined to say when the next Atlas test flight would be conducted.

MEANWHILE, in Washington, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) exhorted Americans to "spend our days and nights" in an effort to pull ahead of Russia in missiles and space science.

Johnson said an inquiry into the U. S. space weapons program indicates "we now face a situation which in some respects is comparable to Pearl Harbor."

The Texas senator, who also is Senate Democratic leader, heads the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which Tuesday night recessed its hearings until Jan. 6.

"It is up to all Americans to work as though there will never be a tomorrow and everything must be done tonight," he said. "We have a long way to go and we must start at the earliest possible moment."

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he thinks the missile and satellite programs have been accelerated by the group's investigation.

"We have made progress but there is a lot of work to be done," he said in a separate interview. "We have laid the facts before the public and the people know where we stand. Now we must get on from here."

The subcommittee heard testimony Tuesday night that development of one type of 1,500-mile-range missile had been delayed by a cutback in funds last August.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force missile chief, testified that an economy order of last August, which was not rescinded until November, slowed down work on the Thor.

SCHRIEVER told the subcommittee "you could get to the moon by 1959" with ballistic missile hardware now being produced in this country. He said the Atlas, Thor, Jupiter and Polaris missiles "all make perfect boosters" for a moon satellite.

The Atlas is an intercontinental ballistic missile designed to travel up to 5,000 miles. The Polaris is a 1,500-mile-range missile being developed by the Navy.

Ike-Dulles Report On NATO Talked

PARIS (AP)—White House press secretary James Hagerty said today President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles may make a joint television and radio report on the NATO conference after they return to Washington.

Hagerty said that the idea still is being considered. He said if there is a report, it will not be before early next week.

The President plans to leave by plane for Washington Thursday, Hagerty announced, and expects to arrive in the capital about 6:30 a. m. (EST) Friday. The presidential plane, the Columbine III, probably will make a refueling stop at the U. S. Air Force base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Ohio Absorbing Muskingum Dam Project

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio has agreed to take over 11 locks and dams along the Muskingum River. The state will begin immediately partial repair of the dams with $235,000 offered by the federal government.

Another $330,000 federal grant is needed to finish work on the dams. U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker and U. S. Rep. John Henderson of Cambridge, who were among 35 to confer with Gov. C. William O'Neill Tuesday, said they will "do everything possible" to get the additional grant.

The governor announced the state move after a meeting with federal, state and local officials and civic leaders to consider preservation of water resources in the river valley.

O'Neill stated that if Congress does not make the appropriation, the state should go ahead with repairs.

"The water is so important in that valley to the state of Ohio that it cannot be lost," he said.

The $235,000 to be used immediately will come from the federal allowance to the Corps of Engineers to place the dams in repair prior to complete abandonment of them by the federal government.

O'Neill explained that the engineers either would make the repairs or the state would make them, depending on terms of the contract.

Boy's 'Vanguard' Flops Like Navy's

DETROIT (AP)—Like the Navy's Vanguard missile, 14-year-old Larry Larson's "tiny Vanguard" failed to take off when he attempted to launch it.

His missile was about three inches long and three fourths of an inch in diameter. It was powered by a carbon dioxide cartridge.

Kneeling in an alley, Larry touched a match to it. Boom! Back to the drawing boards.

White Wings, Arise!!

Eagle-eared Councilman William Wyatt last night deftly cornered an ordinance which was up for passage.

He listened intently as the ordinance on wage increases for the Service Department was read. Among the items was an increase for the broom operator. Wyatt amended the ordinance by inserting the word "power" in front of the word "broom".

Said Wyatt, "It is not a serious error now, but it may become so."

Farm Harvest Ties Record, Although Acreage Is Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers may wonder if there is any way to get away from overproduction of crops.

They were informed Tuesday by the Agriculture Department's final production report of 1957 that this year's harvest ties a record first set in 1948 and matched in 1956, although the acreage used was the smallest since 1919.

The big crop volume adds some new surpluses to complicate production programs for 1958.

The harvest would appear likely to sharpen demands for new farm programs—either ones that would tighten production controls or provide lower prices to open up larger markets.

The 1957 crop production reflected American agriculture's continually growing efficiency—that is, more pounds, bushels, or bales are produced on a given acre of land. There are no indications that this efficiency has reached its peak.

PRODUCTION this year was featured by a bountiful output of feed grains and forage crops—essential raw materials for production of meats, dairy and poultry products.

The department's final report of the year estimated the 1957 corn crop at 3,402,832,000 bushels and the wheat crop at 947,102,000 bushels.

The corn figure is 70,297,000 bushels more than the November forecast 3,332,535,000. It compares also with last year's revised estimate of 3,455,283,000 bushels and with 3,120,484,000 for the 10-year (1946-55) average.

The wheat estimate is 19,778,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 927,324,000 and compares with last year's total of 1,004,272,000 and 1,131,000,000 for the 10-year average.

The department listed these 1957 crop figures for Ohio (harvested acreage and average yield, and indicated important crops this year compared with last year's revised estimate):

Corn—3,343,000 acres harvested; 54 bushels per acre; 180,522,000 bushels produced this year, 215,700,000 last year.

Winter wheat — 1,495,000 acres harvested; 22 bushels per acre; 32,890,000 bushels this year and 39,676,000 last year.

Oats—1,112,000 acres harvested; 38 bushels per acre; 42,256,000 bushels this year and 47,343,000 last year.

Soybeans for beans — 1,421,000 acres harvested; 23 bushels per acre; 32,683,000 bushels this year and 31,224,000 last year.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Maurice Chavigny, accused of slaying a retired general, 64, and the general's wife, 61, a former Zanesville, Ohio, woman, broke down and sobbed in court Tuesday.

Chavigny, 44, a good looking Frenchman, is charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds and Mrs. McReynolds at their fashionable St. Petersburg home April 3.

Although he was their chauffeur he also was on very friendly terms with both of them.

The general's sister, Miss Lavonne McReynolds, testified to visits the three of them made to her home in Fort Lauderdale. She said Mrs. McReynolds and Chavigny also visited there separately.

She was asked what Mrs. McReynolds' attitude toward Chavigny was during early visits.

"I think she treated him rather like a son," Miss McReynolds told the jury. "She looked after his wants and even told him what clothes to wear."

Lorin S. Meredith, who lives across the street from the McReynolds home, testified he heard shouting from that house the night of April 3.

He testified that Chavigny said: "You have been playing with me, my darling. Now it is finished—finished." Then came 8 shots.

Missile Bases OK'd by NATO

Allies Ask New Effort At Arms Pact

Softening of American Attitude on Russia Brings Accord in Paris

PARIS (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings, agreed today to base U. S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the Allied summit conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

The allies gave approval Tuesday to a guarded exploration of the latest Soviet bids for an East-West summit conference.

Many European leaders feel that until they have publicly proved that they have exhausted all possible avenues toward an East-West settlement opened up by the Kremlin, they cannot convince their people of the need to station U. S. missiles on their soil.

Having been assured of the softening of the U. S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

THE DECISION was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a later session. The ministerial meeting opened the third day of the NATO summit talks.

Ike Tells His Press Aide to 'Simmer Down'

LONDON (AP)—Several British newspapers today gave a loud horse laugh to U. S. presidential press secretary James Hagerty, the former newspaperman who couldn't take a columnist's ribbing about his news conferences.

The columnist was humorist Art Buchwald, whose paper, the New York Herald Tribune, was the first major paper to endorse Eisenhower for the presidency in 1952 and which has never wavered in its devotion. Hagerty once worked for the New York Times.

Buchwald, in a column published in the Herald Tribune and its Paris edition Tuesday, recounted an imaginary press conference with presidential spokesman "Jim" spoofing many of the questions asked — and answers received — at such inquiries into the minutiae of the President's daily life.

Hagerty called a special press conference to describe the column as "unadulterated rot" and to assert that "at no time did the reports in the New York Herald Tribune even remotely resemble what I ever said at a public briefing."

"This incredible scene," the London Daily Express told its British readers, "resulted in the biggest shout of laughter since the NATO conference opened."

The Mutual Broadcasting System, in a broadcast from Paris, said the President "laughed like mad" and told Hagerty, "Simmer down, Jim, simmer down."

Flight of Atlas Said 600 Miles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Air Force Atlas missile flew more than 600 miles out over the Atlantic on its first long-distance test flight Tuesday and attained an altitude of 80 miles or more, informed sources said today at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Although the missile was designed to fly 5,000 miles and reach an altitude of 600 miles, it reportedly was set for the test flight to go only about 400 miles.

The missile flew faster, higher and farther than planned.

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center here, reported after the flight that nothing could be said of the mission beyond the official Defense Department release.

The release said the missile flew a prescribed course over a "limited range test of several hundred miles" and landed in a pre-selected impact area.

Yates said the missile was not recovered and no attempt would be made to recover it.

He declined to say when the next Atlas test flight would be conducted.

MEANWHILE, in Washington, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) exhorted Americans to "spend our days and nights" in an effort to pull ahead of Russia in missiles and space science.

Johnson said an inquiry into the U. S. space weapons program indicates "we now face a situation which in some respects is comparable to Pearl Harbor."

The Texas senator, who also is Senate Democratic leader, heads the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which Tuesday night recessed its hearings until Jan. 6.

"It is up to all Americans to work as though there will never be a tomorrow and everything must be done tonight," he said. "We have a long way to go and we must start at the earliest possible moment."

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he thinks the missile and satellite programs have been accelerated by the group's investigation.

"We have made progress but there is a lot of work to be done," he said in a separate interview. "We have laid the facts before the public and the people know where we stand. Now we must get on from here."

The subcommittee heard testimony Tuesday night that development of one type of 1,500-mile-range missile had been delayed by a cutback in funds last August.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force missile chief, testified that an economy order of last August, which was not rescinded until November, slowed down work on the Thor.

SCHRIEVER told the subcommittee "you could get to the moon by 1959" with ballistic missile hardware now being produced in this country. He said the Atlas, Thor, Jupiter and Polaris missiles "all make perfect boosters" for a moon satellite.

The Atlas is an intercontinental ballistic missile designed to travel up to 5,000 miles. The Polaris is a 1,500-mile-range missile being developed by the Navy.

Ike-Dulles Report On NATO Talked

PARIS (AP)—White House press secretary James Hagerty said today President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles may make a joint television and radio report on the NATO conference after they return to Washington.

Hagerty said that the idea still is being considered. He said if there is a report, it will not be before early next week.

The President plans to leave by plane for Washington Thursday, Hagerty announced, and expects to arrive in the capital about 6:30 a. m. (EST) Friday. The presidential plane, the Columbine III, probably will make a refueling stop at the U. S. Air Force base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Stock Mart Surge Labeled As Technical

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market bounded back early this afternoon after two drab sessions.

Steels, motors and aircrafts led what Wall Streeters called a technical recovery from over-selling.

The leaders were up from fractions to a point generally, with some key stocks doing better.

The ticker tape was late for three minutes in the opening pile-up of transactions as many buyers picked up blue chip issues near their lows of the year.

There was no particular news to help the advance.

Rails, some chemicals, oils, and electrical manufacturers joined the rise.

Chrysler was up more than a point and Union Carbide around two.

Gains of about a point were made by Douglas Aircraft, General Dynamics, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Illinois Central and Texas Co.

Fractional gains were made by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens.

General Motors, Goodyear, Boeing, United Aircraft, Gulf Oil and Southern Railway made small gains.

U. S. government bonds eased slightly.

Prices Are Not Declining

Economists in the U. S. Department of Labor are puzzled by the fact that prices, except of food, are not declining. At a time of slack demand and excess capacity in the economy, prices are still about the same as last year and in some cases a little higher.

Much of this may be due to the expectation of producers that their costs will go higher, not lower. That prospect is always present in the wage field. Taxes, too, continue to rise on the local level. Business men hesitate to cut back the price of their goods when such a step might prove disastrous if their costs continue to increase.

The government, of course, has the power in many fields to put on pressure for reduced prices. One example is sugar. The government fixes quotas for imported sugar and has been holding the quotas low. If the government moved in the direction of lower prices in a few controlled fields, there would probably be lower prices in others.

Failure of the government to do this is understandable. It feels compelled to draw off the same amount of tax revenues now being received. Lower prices might be followed by a sharp reduction in the gross national product with a consequent tapering off of revenues.

The nation is caught in high cost, high tax times. And high prices are upheld by the almost universal fear of letting go.

'Perfect Hotel' Is Her Goal

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Evelyn Sharp, a cheerful widow with a merry laugh, dreams to write a perfect sonnet, but she'd rather create a perfect hotel.

"I'm afraid one is about as difficult as the other," said Mrs. Sharp, the only woman in the United States who owns and operates a hotel chain.

She writes poetry and paints to relieve the tension of running her $8 million-a-year enterprise. She learned the business from her late husband, Jesse Sharp, a financier who died in 1941.

Over the years Mrs. Sharp has had a financial interest in some 22 hotels. But she has cut her string to four in order to concentrate on her goal—the building of a group of ultra-luxurious hotels catering only to the carriage trade.

"That's what really interests me," she said. "There is a real need for luxury hotels in America. What's the use of having a booming economy if you can't live well and travel well?"

Her hotels now are the Stanhope and Gotham here, the Saranac (N.Y.) Inn, and the Beverly-Wilshire in California. She values them at $23 million.

An attractive woman with blue eyes and reddish brown hair, Mrs. Sharp can call most of her 1,000 employees by their first name, is minutely familiar with every detail of her hotels. She did the interior decorating herself.

She has added such little personal touches as having free perfume in the room for an arriving lady guest, a copy of Fortune magazine for a male guest.

As we sat chatting in the dining room of the Stanhope, Mrs. Sharp noticed an elderly lady sitting alone at a nearby table. Nodding at the lady, she said to one of her staff:

"Gus, she looks sad today.

Send some fresh cut flowers to her room so they'll be there when she returns. Make them pink and white. I think she'd like those colors best."

Here are her tips for a woman who wants to succeed in the business world:

"Don't take every small misfortune to heart, or brood if something goes wrong now and then."

"Lead a good life—so you've got the strength to do your work. If you're tired, you're whipped. "Say what you think to people without mincing words. Be clear. Then you can get things done without rehashing them."

"If you have a decision to make, think it through clearly, then act promptly. Don't be afraid to burn your bridges behind you."

She practices what she preaches. She paid $7 million for the Beverly-Wilshire hotel after seeing it only once.

Man Struggles for Ideals

By George Sokolsky

The age-old argument continues as to what causes men in various countries to rise in revolution, to battle their rulers, to go to war.

Americans are pleased to believe that the struggle in the world today is between the poor nations and the rich nations, between low standard of living peoples and higher standard of living peoples, and that all human problems can be solved by raising purchasing power, so that they eat more, are better housed and better clothed. Then there will be peace on earth, good will to men.

It is an easy solution, a pleasant thought and upon it one can take a brandy. But it runs counter to all history, for the explosive power in all this world of man has not been bread, but ideals, beliefs, ways of life, concepts of eternity, hunger for liberty. It has always been the austere people who have been capable of enormous sacrifices, perhaps because they had nothing to lose but their lives.

It was the kumiss-drinking Mongols under Genghis Khan and the sans culottes army of Napoleon, impoverished by the French Revolution but believing in Liberty! Equality! Fraternity! who set out to conquer mankind.

just as today the Soviet world marching under the banners of Marxism-Leninism accepts austerity as a norm of life to achieve the universality of mankind.

It was not a higher standard of living that sent Christians to the catacombs or into the Crusades; it was when Christians secularized their God and paid homage to material existence that they lost empires. We are being told today that all that is necessary to put an end to war and revolution is for the United States to provide more aid, to abolish customs duties, to increase European and Asiatic purchasing power and then the Asiatics and Africans will be happy and will wave the American flag on the Fourth of July.

Into all this also must go the abolition of the Dutch, French and British Empires for which the compensation is to be a little more aid and a little more dependence for Europeans and more independence for the newly intensified nationalistic countries of Asia and Africa.

While, in pursuit of this policy, based on the assumption that the Marxist materialistic interpretation of history is correct, we helped to destroy the Dutch Empire in Indonesia, the British power in India, Egypt and Arabia, the French Empire in North Africa, but we have not made a dent upon the Russian Empire. To the contrary, we have strengthened the Russian Empire by our shameful betrayal of Nationalist China, Korea, Indochina, and Hungary.

There is no evidence in history that men are willing to live by bread alone and Soviet Russia is ample proof, over 40 years, two frightful wars and a devastating revolution, that something more than bread, something of the spirit, must be fed the human soul.

People may be misled, often to their own disadvantage, but they follow not so much him who gives him bread as him who demands sacrifices for a cause, as Winston Churchill proved even in our own generation when he offered nothing but blood and tears and high taxes.

Among the moderns of Russia was a priest, the Rev. Yelchani-nov, who was born in 1881 and died in exile in Paris in 1934. He made a tremendous impression on the religious thought of the Orthodox Church. In fact, during the 1905 Revolution, he belonged to the "Christian Brotherhood of Struggle," a revolutionary organization.

After the Communist Revolution, he was a leader of the Russian Christian Student Movement in Exile. I quote the following from Fr. Yelchani-nov's writings as an example of the thinking of the Russian people, even in our times:

"We live on a farm between 250 and 300 years old; low ceilings, with heavy beams, a chimney, fortress-like walls. In place of the early hearth, there is an iron stove, but even this—especially on a wet day—gives a real sense of home, of coziness, of something long desired."

"I think a real feeling of home can be had only by people who have lived in such nests as these in their own houses, with the real, living fire of a hearth and a smoky ceiling. What special attraction can be offered by our

Right Shoes for Infants

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Maybe we human beings were better off when we didn't wear clothes.

Now I'm not advocating nudism. I just want to point out that the body if a near-perfect machine that will run smoothly if we don't interfere with it too much. In general, it just doesn't need artificial help to develop.

Ill-fitting and restrictive clothing actually causes harm, no matter what its protective benefit may be.

Take baby's shoes, for example. I have always recommended soft soles for infants' shoes. And now there appears to be a growing tendency among pediatricians to recommend what they call "bare-foot freedom" in baby footwear.

This was brought to my attention by an article, written by Mildred C. Martin, which appeared recently in an American Medical Assn. publication. The author had interviewed 175 doctors on the subject of foot care for youngsters.

Most of the doctors agreed that the best foot gear is that which permits a baby's foot to develop unhampered by restrictive shoes.

You don't put a perfectly good arm in a sling or bind a normal abdomen with a tight corset. So why place a stiff, binding shoe on a baby's foot?

Nature intended the baby to rotate on his heels and grip with his toes when he begins to walk. He can't do it with a stiff sole in his shoe.

The proper shoes should follow the general shape of the foot, but should not be miniature copies of your own foot gear. They shouldn't be "fitted" to the tiny foot. Rather, they should provide plenty of freedom for foot movement.

The heel of the shoe should fit snugly enough to prevent slipping, but the sole should be flat and the full length of the shoes.

The toes should be wide enough to allow the foot to spread and flex his toes at will. There should be no restrictive laces. A clasp, buckle or simple tie is preferable.

As I have mentioned previously, I advise shoes made of leather. The soles of the feet contain more sweat glands proportionately than any other part of the body. Leather permits the foot to "breathe."

You might keep this advice in mind when you do your Christmas shopping. The right kind of shoes would make a nice gift for baby.

The administration hasn't yet answered the letter or issued a formal statement on it. Instead, it let two press officers dismiss it as propaganda before the State Department had even released a translation of it.

But this wasn't the reaction of the Allies. Some of them arrived at Paris wanting far more serious attention for the letter than a curt dismissal.

Their reaction—even though the letter upon testing may prove to be only propaganda—was: Let's take it more seriously than that and try to find out whether the Russians mean it.

In short, Bulganin said: The arms race gets worse and may end up badly for everybody. Before it does, the nations ought to disarm, or at least get down to talking disarmament, even if it requires another summit meeting.

This letter hit the West Europeans at a time when they were still jittery over the realization—forced on them by the flight of the Sputniks—that Russia had missiles and that atomic-tipped missiles could flatten Western Europe.

So for them, the thought of disarmament now has more attraction than ever. Yet the Eisenhower administration brought to the NATO meeting nothing much more than proposals for even greater armaments.

The United States had to yield a little bit to the European desire to explore Bulganin's letter for a possible escape from the arms

If Bulganin's letter was propaganda only the Russians already have obtained a lot of mileage from it. This country has done nothing yet to offset it.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard goes to the Green Ghoul to get a spool of golden thread for Santa. The Ghoul lives in a tree house and has a hundred arms. When Richard snatches the thread from her pocket she crushes him with her arms.

CHAPTER 13 THE BLACK DIAMOND

Richard struggled in the many arms of the Green Ghoul. Using all his strength he twisted back the arms that held him. But it was no use. When he freed himself from two arms a dozen more took their place.

He bent back one, broke another, twisted a third. Still the arms crushed him. It was impossible to escape and all Richard's strength was useless.

Suddenly he got an idea. He thought, "Breaking away from each arm does no good. What I must do is strike at the Ghoul herself. If I conquer her I will, at the same time, conquer the hundred arms."

It was the first time in his life he had ever thought his way out of trouble. He felt happy and unafraid.

He took a big breath and punched his head into the stomach of the Green Ghoul. The mighty blow knocked the breath out of the creature and all arms collapsed.

Richard leaped away. He ran from the house and jumped to the ground. By the time the Ghoul recovered her breath Richard was a mile away. The Green Ghoul let out a roar of anger, a roar so powerful it caused a giant wind to sweep across the whole world.

But the wind only helped to carry Richard on his way and the roar didn't frighten him for he was far beyond the reach of the hundred arms.

On and on Richard ran, never tiring, until at last he came to Santa's house.

"I did it!" he cried as he burst through the door. "I brought you the thread!"

He put the spool of golden thread on Santa's desk and then he stood there happier and prouder than he had ever been in his life.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

"Where is Patrick Tweedle-knees?" asked Richard. "I would like him to know."

"He'll be along presently," said Santa. "In the meantime you come with me."

He took Richard into the kitchen and there on the table were platters of doughnuts and ginger cookies and lemon pie. There was a big white pitcher filled with chocolate milk shake and a blue pitcher filled with cherry pop.

Richard reached for a piece of lemon pie. But at that very moment Patrick Tweedle-knees came into the room.

"I did it!" said Richard. "I brought Santa the golden thread."

"So I heard," snapped Tweedle-knees. "But remember Santa said you must bring him two things and a coward like you will never get the second."

Richard put down the piece of lemon pie. "What is the second thing I must bring?"

"Now," said Santa, "you must bring to me a black diamond."

"A-and where will I find such a diamond?"

"From the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea."

"Who is the Phantom of the Sea?" faltered Richard.

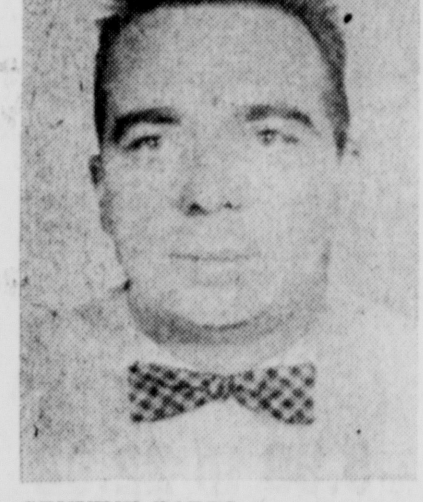

"Who knows?" cried Tweedle-knees.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

- Stop Watch Surgery
- Leprosy
- Lucky numbers

Q. Can a surgeon be judged by the speed with which he operates? A. No. Years ago anesthetics, surgical equipment, and surgical knowledge were pretty skimpy, so surgeons had to hurry. It's different today. Many difficult operations performed in these modern times require great skill. With better equipment and more knowledge the surgeon doesn't have to keep one eye on the clock. Modern surgeons are able to operate quickly when speed is necessary but they are never hasty.

Q. Do native-born Americans ever contract leprosy? A. Yes, but only a dozen or so cases are reported each year. Most patients come from New York, Florida, Louisiana, Texas and California. Although leprosy is rare in the United States, other countries are not so fortunate. One of the worst spots for leprosy today is Easter Island, known for its mysterious stone statues. An American doctor who recently visited the island found that almost one out of ten natives were lepers. Easter Island has a leprosyarium but not many patients receive treatment. As the American doctor said, it's virtually leprosy on the loose.

Q. Does the average person believe in "lucky numbers"? A. People seem to prefer certain numbers and these may be the "lucky" ones. In one scientific experiment doctors asked 200 people to select a number with a single digit (0 to 9). Seven was the most popular with 3 and 5 running a close second. The doctors didn't explain why 3, 5, and 7 were so popular.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Traditional Holiday Goodies Brewed Along Embassy Row

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—As in many American homes across the land, spicy and inviting aromas are floating from kitchens on Embassy Row while the diplomats' cooks bustle about preparing the traditional holiday goodies of their native lands.

Plum puddings, fruit cake, jule-kake, meat pies, buns and breads, and numerous little cakes and cookies of many different flavors, pretty to look at and good to eat, are being whipped up according to time-honored custom. Most of the wives are hoping to have at least one holiday offering typical of the country they represent.

Mrs. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian ambassador, has a special treat for guests during the Yule season. It's made weeks in advance and is called "Mother Monson's Cake." Here's the recipe:

Two cups of melted butter, 2 cups sugar, 10 eggs, 3 cups white flour, 1 cup chopped almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Mix like cake, in a shallow pan. Cover with chopped almonds and crushed cube sugar. Bake until light yellow in moderate (350 degree) oven. Cut in diamond-shaped pieces and store in tins.

At the Swedish Embassy the holiday begins with celebration of St. Lucia Day, Dec. 13. Then Ambassador and Mrs. Erik Boheman have a party for children of embassy personnel and serve newly-baked Lucia buns and cakes while they sing "Santa Lucia." Celebrated by Swedes everywhere, the festival honors a Christian maiden martyred under the Roman emperor Diocletian and falls on the date when daylight will increase after the dark months. Here, as wherever Swedes are gathered, a pretty girl is chosen to represent Lucia. Attired in white robe, with lighted candles in a wreath of greens circling her head, she leads the singing and serves the sweets.

Mrs. Francoise Chatelain, pretty brunette wife of the new first secretary of the Swiss embassy, expects to serve a traditional sweet of her country on this, her first Christmas here. It's a light, rich cake flavored with cocoa, called "La Bûche de Noël." "It looks like a piece of a log," she said.

A "country chop" is the holiday dish of Liberia. Mrs. George Padmore, wife of the ambassador tells me. This is not what you think. It's a native dish made of rice, chicken, meat, green leaf and oil from the palm.

Federal Reserve Board
Shows Another Dip

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — Statisticians aren't doing much today to enhance Christmas cheer. Gloomy figures for December and November keep rolling in. Seems as if the Christmas shopper is carrying the load of sweetness and light these days almost by himself.

Several inches have been snipped off that prime yardstick of business conditions, the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production. In November it measured 139 per cent of its 1947-49 average — a drop of two points from October and eight points from its high of 147 last December.

The shrinking index explains some of the other bad statistical news — the rise in unemployment in November to 3 1/4 million, the highest for any November since 1949; and the dip in personal income totals for the first time in many months.

Factory layoffs or temporary shutdowns continue in December, building up further gloomy figures when the statisticians get around to them.

Rail freight shipments have been running below their like periods in 1956 for 17 straight weeks now.

The three big American copper producers are cutting back mining activity until the world glut of the metal can be cut. On the cheerier side, the cutback has firmed up copper prices, weak for months. Steel production has now slipped below 1,800,000 tons a week for the first time since Christmas week of 1954, with the exception of strike periods.

Oil field statisticians continue to report high inventories as demand fails to absorb supplies, despite sizable cutbacks in domestic production.

Detroit statisticians try to help out by finding some silver linings. Although dealers have about 90,000 unsold 1957 models on their hands and stocks of new cars have risen by 61,465 in the last month, the total Dec. 1 of 510,505 was 100,000 more than a year ago but well below the record Dec. 1 inventory of 723,107 in 1955.

But the unpleasant reading that current statistics make doesn't dismay most businessmen. The great majority are forecasting a pickup in the second half of next year and look for a sturdy resumption of the boom in 1959.

Ohio Valley
Generators
Expand Rapidly

CINCINNATI — Harry M. Mack, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, declared here today that new electric utility steam-plant facilities scheduled for completion along the Ohio River and its tributaries between now and the end of 1960 will add 2,986,000 kilowatts to the nation's power supply.

That, Beck said in a year-end report on Ohio valley development, is more than 150 per cent of the total installed capacity of Grand Coulee and about three times that of the United States' share of the St. Lawrence Seaway power development.

All of the new Ohio River plants will be privately-owned.

Mack said the utility generating capacity along the Ohio and its tributaries has grown from 4.7 per cent of the national total in 1941 to 9.2 per cent by the end of 1956.

"The rapid expansion," he said, "is based on low-cost coal moved over the Ohio River and its tributaries from mining fields."

In that connection, Mack said 41 million tons of coal was carried by Ohio River barges last year—approximately half the entire river traffic.

"Coal is power and the cost of power, domestic or industrial, is based on the price of coal," the report said. "Coal transported on the Ohio River costs less than other coal so the benefits of the low-cost power accrue to consumers out on the end of the line."

The report said 62 per cent of the coal moved on the Ohio in 1956 was delivered to electric utility plants.

Ohio Election Chief Plans Appointing 176 Poll Aides

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown soon will appoint 176 members of county election boards which run Ohio's voting machinery.

Each of Ohio's 88 county boards will get one Republican and one Democratic member to serve for four years, starting March 1. Others on the four-member boards began their terms in 1956.

Brown, credited with giving Ohio one of the nation's best election systems, customarily follows recommendations of county Democratic and Republican executive committees in making the appointments.

But Ohio's chief elections official has disregarded them on occasions when he felt those recommended failed to measure up to his standards. As a result, committees are increasingly more careful in their selections.

Commenting on the importance of election officials near the "grass roots" level, Brown said:

"They are as important, if not more so, than any other public official because of the necessity of having efficient and honest elections. They must put partisan politics aside to make fair decisions."

Brown makes it a practice to personally interview all new appointees recommended by the local committees. If he is not satisfied after the interviews, he calls for another recommendation before acting on his own.

Statute requires committees to make recommendations not more than 60 days, nor less than 15 days, before Feb. 28. He said some committees already have set the date for their meetings.

The two-party boards are entrusted by law with the duty of establishing election precincts, providing for voter registrations where they are required, holding elections and keeping records of all voting.

Board members supervise approximately 130,000 people who work for them during elections in some 12,000 polling places over the state.

Members themselves are employees of the state but are paid by their counties on the basis of population. Salary limits range between $600 and $6,000 a year.

Ohio has strict laws governing selection of board chairmen and clerks.

Within five days after appointments are made, boards must name one of their members to serve as chairman at meetings. They also must pick an elector of their county, who is not a board member, to serve as clerk. Clerks and chairmen, who serve for two years, must be of opposite political parties.

Counties with cities of 16,000 or more population, in which voter registration is mandatory, are required to have deputy clerks unless a board majority decides otherwise. Clerks and their deputies also must be of different political faiths.

Balloting for such officers must begin not later than 1 p.m. at the organization meetings. At least one ballot is required every 20 minutes until five ballots have been taken in case of deadlines over a clerk. Then the secretary of state is empowered to break those deadlines.

If a chairman is not selected on the first ballot, the board member, of opposite politics from the clerk, having the shortest term to serve shall be declared chairman by law.

Shirley Temple Remembers Wonderful Life as Actress

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does Shirley Temple remember of her golden childhood?

A few cruelties, but mostly a wonderful life of continual make-believe.

She reflected on her early days as she sipped a soft drink in the Brown Derby after a day of preparation for her new TV show. Her memories go back to when she was barely 2½, she said.

"No, I don't think it's because my mother has told me things that earliest memories were of the Baby Burlesque series (1932) when the director wouldn't let the mothers on the set."

"He wasn't a very nice man. I can remember a short we did about Tarzan, in which I played Jane. He had a boy and me sit on an ostrich which had been hooded. Then he removed the hood while the camera was rolling and the ostrich ran. I was very scared."

After that, she did a series as the sister of Junior Coughlin, then was discovered by Fox. She recalled attending a preview of one of her shorts. She and her parents were accosted by a song writer in the lobby. She auditioned in a music bungalow, singing "The Green Grass Grew All Around." Studio boss Winfield Sheehan put her in a musical number with James Dunn in "Stand Up and Cheer," then signed her to a contract.

"But for some reason, he put me into bit parts only," she said.

"Paramount wanted me for 'Little Miss Marker,' but Mr. Sheehan wouldn't let me go. Paramount waited until he gave in."

"Little Miss Marker" made her a star. She did another film at Paramount, "Now and Forever," then returned to Fox to headline a series of films that established her as the No. 1 draw at the box office.

Nearly every film called for a crying scene, and legends grew up as to how it was accomplished. Recently it was printed that her mother spanked her to induce tears.

"Utterly untrue," she said. "All I had to do was go in a corner with my mother and concentrate. I didn't even think of anything sad. Pretty soon the tears would come, and my mother would cry too, out of sympathy. I can still do it today."

Shirley said she has never had regrets about her childhood—"I could live more make-believe than most children." She was happy that she started in an outside school in the seventh grade—"The competition is good for you."

BILLINGS, Okla. (AP) — Superintendent of Schools John Gorton isn't going to make any more rash deals with the high school student body.

He told the students anyone found in the halls after the bell rings in the morning has to sweep the halls. If no one is found, he pushes the broom.

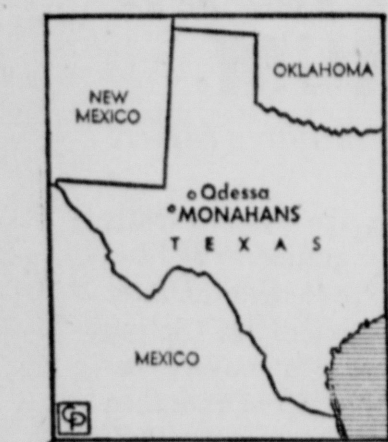

Borton has been on the business end of the broom since school started.

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service agent tells of a Roswell woman who called the office and asked, "How do you spell 'immediately'?"

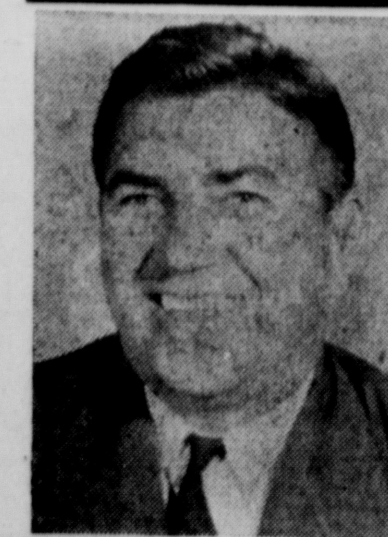

"After I told her," he said, "I asked why she called us to ask such a thing."

"She answered, 'If anyone in town would know, you people would.'"

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (AP) — The historic sites and monuments board is investigating theft of a 100-foot chain from around the Peter Pond Cairn on the highway west of here. The cairn was unveiled in 1955, during Saskatchewan's golden jubilee.

LONG-RANGE WEATHER — Map locates Monahans, Tex., where Texas Tech scientists will seek information on weather as far back as 15,000 years ago. They will study Monahans dunes, a strip of sands about 30 miles wide and 100 long. Why here? Well, no rivers drain into the area, and consequently the archeologists will find only fossils of the immediate area. This will give them an archeological picture of the area back through the hundreds of centuries. The National Science foundation forked over $15,500 for first year of study.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A water bill upset the girls at the Kappa Delta house at the University of Oklahoma.

The bill was for $15,730,015, considerably higher than the normal charge. A quick trip to City Hall corrected the error and reduced the bill considerably more than 15 million dollars.

Ohio Election Chief Plans Appointing 176 Poll Aides

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown soon will appoint 176 members of county election boards which run Ohio's voting machinery.

Each of Ohio's 88 county boards will get one Republican and one Democratic member to serve for four years, starting March 1. Others on the four-member boards began their terms in 1956.

Brown, credited with giving Ohio one of the nation's best election systems, customarily follows recommendations of county Democratic and Republican executive committees in making the appointments.

But Ohio's chief elections official has disregarded them on occasions when he felt those recommended failed to measure up to his standards. As a result, committees are increasingly more careful in their selections.

Commenting on the importance of election officials near the "grass roots" level, Brown said:

"They are as important, if not more so, than any other public official because of the necessity of having efficient and honest elections. They must put partisan politics aside to make fair decisions."

Brown makes it a practice to personally interview all new appointees recommended by the local committees. If he is not satisfied after the interviews, he calls for another recommendation before acting on his own.

Statute requires committees to make recommendations not more than 60 days, nor less than 15 days, before Feb. 28. He said some committees already have set the date for their meetings.

The two-party boards are entrusted by law with the duty of establishing election precincts, providing for voter registrations where they are required, holding elections and keeping records of all voting.

Board members supervise approximately 130,000 people who work for them during elections in some 12,000 polling places over the state.

Members themselves are employees of the state but are paid by their counties on the basis of population. Salary limits range between $600 and $6,000 a year.

Ohio has strict laws governing selection of board chairmen and clerks.

Within five days after appointments are made, boards must name one of their members to serve as chairman at meetings. They also must pick an elector of their county, who is not a board member, to serve as clerk. Clerks and chairmen, who serve for two years, must be of opposite political parties.

Counties with cities of 16,000 or more population, in which voter registration is mandatory, are required to have deputy clerks unless a board majority decides otherwise. Clerks and their deputies also must be of different political faiths.

Balloting for such officers must begin not later than 1 p.m. at the organization meetings. At least one ballot is required every 20 minutes until five ballots have been taken in case of deadlocks over a clerk. Then the secretary of state is empowered to break those deadlocks.

If a chairman is not selected on the first ballot, the board member, of opposite politics from the clerk, having the shortest term to serve shall be declared chairman by law.

Shirley Temple Remembers Wonderful Life as Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does Shirley Temple remember of her golden childhood?

A few cruelties, but mostly a wonderful life of continual make-believe.

She reflected on her early days as she sipped a soft drink in the Brown Derby after a day of preparation for her new TV show. Her memories go back to when she was barely 2½, she said.

Sire Major Factor In Improved Herds

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

No matter how you phrase it, there is just no getting around the fact that the future of a farmer's dairy or beef enterprise rests on the kind of calves his bulls are siring.

The tremendous improvement made by the Ohio dairy cow can credit the greatest share of its success to the fine work of artificial breeding. Let's look at what has happened to this average cow since 1950. In 1950, there were 945,000 milk cows in Ohio. In 1956, there were 843,000 cows. These 843,000 cows produced 5,842,000 pounds of milk as compared to 5,273,000 pounds by the 945,000 milk cows in 1950. The average cow in 1950 produced 5,580 pounds of milk and the 1956 cow produced 6,330 pounds.

One of the real contributions to increased production is a sound sire selection and breeding program. Artificial breeding has been a program that has really grown in recent years and for this reason we believe that it has had more to do with the increase in production of the average cow in Ohio than any other single factor.

How many Pickaway County farmers have the services of such sires as Meadow Springs Follow-on-Laird with 11 daughters with 14 records of 14,230 pounds of milk, 536 pounds of butterfat, or Jester

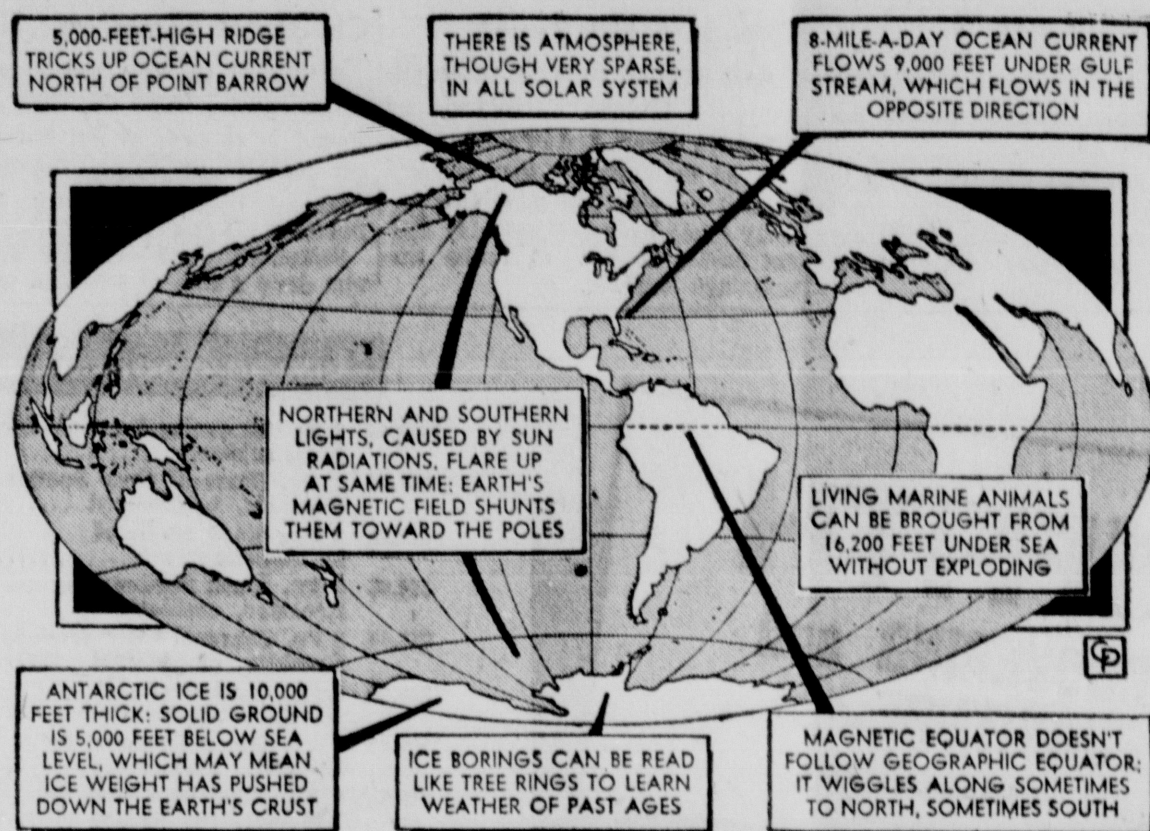

B Noble Aim Classified Excellent with records of 21 daughters with 8,518 pounds of milk and 483 pounds of fat, or Blakeford Transfer with 36 daughters' records of 10,852 pounds of milk and 541 pounds of fat?

THESE ARE Holstein, Jersey, and Guernsey sires respectively. These are only three of the many fine sires available for service to Pickaway County farmers. The sires of the Central Ohio Breeding Assn. are all proven individuals, an item that an individual farmer would have extreme difficulty in doing.

In most cases two extra cows can be kept in place of a bull and the farmer doesn't run the risk of possible injury by a bull.

Artificial breeding service is available to all county dairymen regardless of whether they have 1 or 100 cows.

Your County Agricultural Agent will be happy to assist you with your problem of sire selection.

WHAT'S WITH IGY?—Here are a few of the scientific facts garnered by International Geophysical Year, which still has till Dec. 31, 1958, to run. There are a lot more facts, too... the thermometer hit 102.1 degrees below zero at the South Pole last Sept. 17... water in the ocean depths isn't changing places with surface water as fast as it used to. We still have a lot of sputnik knowledge coming, from ours when we get it launched, or maybe the Russians', if they'll tell.

Corn Farmers Must Apply For Support

Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1958 on a farm where there was no corn acreage during the years 1955, 1956, or 1957 must apply for a corn allotment if he desires price support or any other phase of the Soil Bank Program other than the Acreage Reserve Program for corn in 1958, Luther List, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the present program, the production of corn in 1958 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make the corn produced on such a farm ineligible for price support in 1958 as well as affect his participation in the Soil Bank Program.

Application forms for a corn allotment are available at the ASC county office, January 31, 1958, is the last day such applications may be filed.

Picks Both Sides

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — One voter in Berwick township had his own ideas for his ballot in the fall elections here.

He printed, under his own title of the "live and let live amendment," the question "Shall We Have A Stop Light at Cross Keys?" After that he drew two squares, one marked "yes" and the other "no" and placed an "X" in the "yes" square.

Election officials threw out the ballot because it had been defaced.

University Fees Hiked

COLUMBUS — Student fees at Capital University here will go up $100 next September to a total of $1,210 per school year.

Judge Gets Certificate

COLUMBUS — Raymond E. Shannon, recently appointed municipal court judge in Cincinnati, Tuesday received his certificate of office from Gov. C. William O'Neill.

Make Christmas a Merry One For the VIP -- Homemaker

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
Home Economics Agent

If not present, let's all seek and find the true spirit of Christmas—the spirit that is not at all expensive and not too demanding of total time and energy.

This year, Santa's staff has a bigger problem than last year. There are so many new and ultra-special devices to test the will power. Santa should be more careful of choices so as to relieve that too popular after-giving-exchange as well as that silent statement—"whatever will I do with this!"

A little child once said, "I don't believe in Santa Claus because I see so many of him." To this remark the following response was given: "Don't ever say you don't believe in Santa just because there is so much of him. It is the muchness that makes him Santa!"

"He's just like a piece of cardboard. You peel off one layer and underneath is another exactly like it. The main Santa probably sits by the fire in his comfortable home at the North Pole while all these facsimiles carry out his orders for him." The telepathic channels through which he gets his inspiration to give orders could often better be censured.

It is not the expensive wrapped packages with glamorous and expensive contents, but the wholesome and perhaps clever or personalized gift and wrapping that manifests the true spirit of giving.

THE LEGEND OF The Bells is one on which we could all think more sincerely. According to this legend, the heavenly bells would be heard only when the greatest gift was placed on the altar of the little village church. Priceless gems were placed thereon—but it was the ragged shawl of an awe-struck poor girl that caused the bells to ring out.

The "Littlest Angel" is another convincing story. Christmas time can be a good test of the ingenuity of the homemaker—that VIP.

The housewife who claims such as her only career is a Jill of all Trades—any season of the year. In an emergency, most of them can do anything the pioneer homemaker had to do. And—as a matter of daily routine, the average VIP can do things the pioneer woman never dreamed of!

One may not do anything especially original or spectacular, but the way each family or individual celebrates Christmas should be a lasting framework for precious memories.

The Christmas season is deserving of effort spent in creating and maintaining a family cooperative spirit that will be enjoyed and remembered—a spirit that is backed by the belief that it is better to give than to receive. And, what is wrong with exercising this Santa spirit the year around and saving more time at Christmas for really and truly celebrating Christmas?

To insure a completely satisfactory Christmas, keep fire hazards in mind when the Christmas tree or other decorations are up. The National Board of Fire Underwriters gives this advice:—

Don't place the tree near hot spots such as radiators, TV sets, strong light bulbs or fireplaces. Never use paper ornaments, cotton batting or gauze that hasn't been treated for flame resistance. Keep curtains and other flammable material at least 6 inches from electric bulbs. Check light cords for fraying and have switch for turning on tree lights a safe distance from the tree.

With the current availability of Pink trees (artificial), tinsel, ornaments, and light bulbs, one can now have their choice of dreams—a Pink or a White Christmas!

ABRACA-DEBRA—Around six ounces of sequins protect 24-year-old Debra Paget from the rigors of Las Vegas, Nev., as she goes into act. She just shed a film contract. (International)

Twenty members of the Walnut Young Farmer Group took a "Trip Through a Pig Factory" Thursday night during their regular weekly session at Walnut High School. This trip was a film showing the development of the baby pig embryo inside the sow from breeding to farrowing.

During this 114-day period, which the sow uses to build a litter of pigs, there is a tremendous strain on a gilt or sow. Fortunately, nature has provided her with a "safety valve"...the ability to resorb the tiny embryos into her system if she does not get the proper feed which she and her developing litter need. Authorities estimate that 20 to 33 per cent of all embryos are lost during the gestation period!

It takes five pigs per litter to pay all expenses of the litter. All pigs raised over and above these five are "Profit Pigs". The 20 to 33 per cent of all embryos lost represents about 4 pigs per litter. These could be the profit pigs and thus destroy our opportunity to make money on these litters.

Members of the Walnut Young Farmer group list these guides to follow in feeding gilts and sows during the winter gestation period so they will farrow a large litter of strong and healthy pigs.

1. Include alfalfa in the ration. 2. Add 2 per cent minerals to the ration. 3. Corn alone does not provide enough protein!

4. IF SELF-FEEDING, provide a bulky ration to prevent sows from getting fat. 5. For hand feeding—feed gilts 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of feed per 100 pound of live weight. Sows need 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 pounds of feed per cwt. of live weight daily. Gilts require a ration containing 14 per cent protein while 12 per cent is sufficient for sows.

The next meeting of the Walnut Young Farmer group will be held in the Agriculture room of Walnut High School at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Topic for discussion will be "Farm Law." A lawyer will be present to answer pertinent questions on this topic.

Sire Major Factor In Improved Herds

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

No matter how you phrase it, there is just no getting around the fact that the future of a farmer's dairy or beef enterprise rests on the kind of calves his bulls are siring.

The tremendous improvement made by the Ohio dairy cow can credit the greatest share of its success to the fine work of artificial breeding. Let's look at what has happened to this average cow since 1950. In 1950, there were 945,000 milk cows in Ohio. In 1956, there were 843,000 cows. These 843,000 cows produced 5,842,000 pounds of milk as compared to 5,273,000 pounds by the 945,000 milk cows in 1950.

The average cow in 1950 produced 5,580 pounds of milk and the 1956 cow produced 6,930 pounds. One of the real contributions to increased production is a sound sire selection and breeding program. Artificial breeding has been a program that has really grown in recent years and for this reason we believe that it has had more to do with the increase in production of the average cow in Ohio than any other single factor.

How many Pickaway County farmers have the services of such sires as Meadow Springs Follow-on-Laird with 11 daughters with 14 records of 14,230 pounds of milk, 536 pounds of butterfat, or Jester

B Noble Aim Classified Excellent with records of 21 daughters with 8,518 pounds of fat, or Blakeford Transfer with 36 daughters' records of 10,852 pounds of milk and 541 pounds of fat?

THESE ARE Holstein, Jersey, and Guernsey sires respectively. These are only three of the many fine sires available for service to Pickaway County farmers. The sires of the Central Ohio Breeding Assn. are all proven individuals, an item that an individual farmer would have extreme difficulty in doing.

In most cases two extra cows can be kept in place of a bull and the farmer doesn't run the risk of possible injury by a bull.

Artificial breeding service is available to all county dairymen regardless of whether they have 1 or 100 cows.

Your County Agricultural Agent will be happy to assist you with your problem of sire selection.

Make Christmas a Merry One For the VIP -- Homemaker

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
Home Economics Agent

If not present, let's all seek and find the true spirit of Christmas—the spirit that is not at all expensive and not too demanding of total time and energy.

This year, Santa's staff has a bigger problem than last year. There are so many new and ultra-special devices to test the will power. Santa should be more careful of choices so as to relieve that too popular after-giving-exchange as well as that silent statement—"whatever will I do with this!"

A little child once said, "I don't believe in Santa Claus because I see so many of him." To this remark the following response was given: "Don't ever say you don't believe in Santa just because there is so much of him. It is the muchness that makes him Santa!"

"He's just like a piece of cardboard. You peel off one layer and underneath is another exactly like it. The main Santa probably sits by the fire in his comfortable home at the North Pole while all these facsimiles carry out his orders for him." The telepathic channels through which he gets his inspiration to give orders could often better be censured.

ABRACA-DEBRA—Around six ounces of sequins protect 24-year-old Debra Paget from the rigors of Las Vegas, Nev., as she goes into act. She just shed a film contract. (International)

It is not the expensive wrapped packages with glamorous and expensive contents, but the wholesome and perhaps clever or personalized gift and wrapping that manifests the true spirit of giving.

THE LEGEND OF The Bells is one on which we could all think more sincerely. According to this legend, the heavenly bells would be heard only when the greatest gift was placed on the altar of the little village church. Priceless gems were placed thereon—but it was the ragged shawl of an awe-struck poor girl that caused the bells to ring out.

The "Littlest Angel" is another convincing story. Christmas time can be a good test of the ingenuity of the homemaker—that VIP.

The housewife who claims such as her only career is a Jill of all Trades—any season of the year. In an emergency, most of them can do anything the pioneer homemaker had to do. And—as a matter of daily routine, the average VIP can do things the pioneer woman never dreamed of!

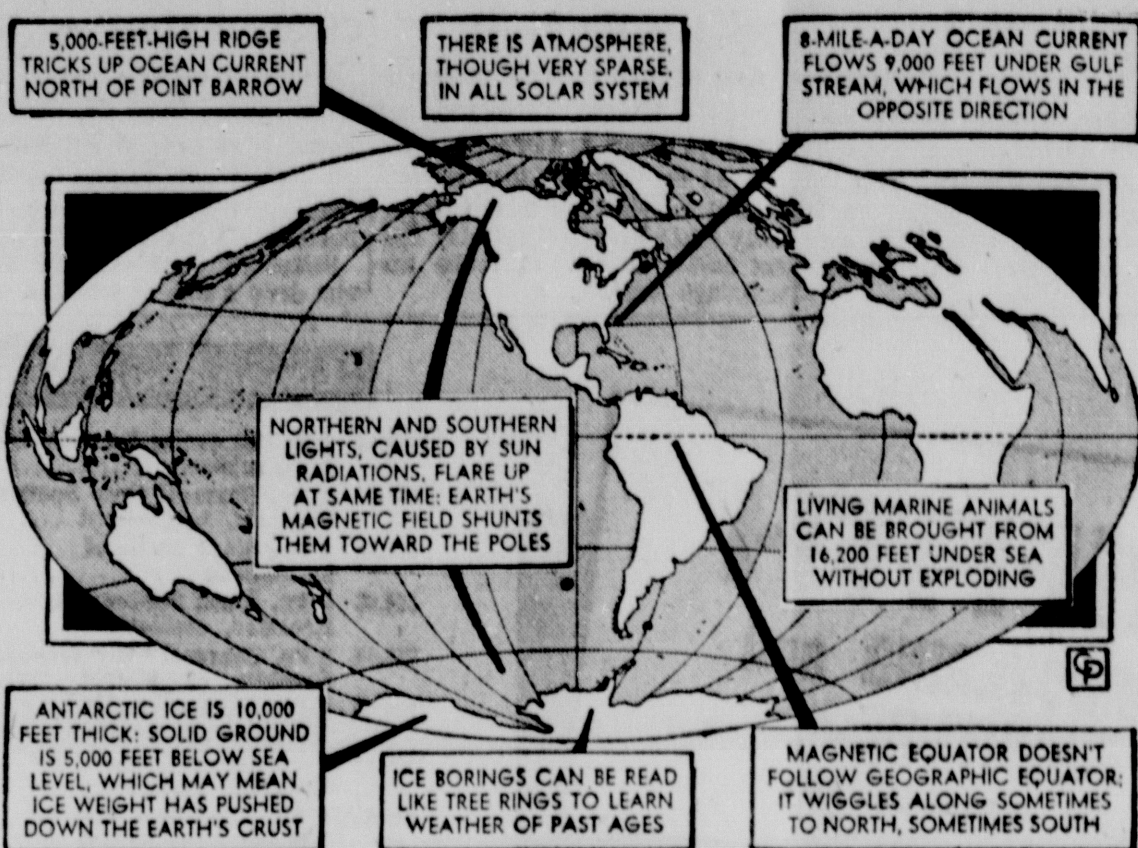

One may not do anything especially original or spectacular, but the way each family or individual celebrates Christmas should be a lasting framework for precious memories.

The Christmas season is deserving of effort spent in creating and maintaining a family cooperative spirit that will be enjoyed and remembered—a spirit that is backed by the belief that it is better to give than to receive. And, what is wrong with exercising this Santa spirit the year around and saving more time at Christmas for really and truly celebrating Christmas?

To insure a completely satisfactory Christmas, keep fire hazards in mind when the Christmas tree or other decorations are up. The National Board of Fire Underwriters gives this advice:—

Don't place the tree near hot spots such as radiators, TV sets, strong light bulbs or fireplaces. Never use paper ornaments, cotton batting or gauze that hasn't been treated for flame resistance. Keep curtains and other flammable material at least 6 inches from electric bulbs. Check light cords for fraying and have switch for turning on tree lights a safe distance from the tree.

With the current availability of Pink trees (artificial), tinsel, ornaments, and light bulbs, one can now have their choice of dreams—a Pink or a White Christmas!

WHAT'S WITH IGY?—Here are a few of the scientific facts garnered by International Geophysical Year, which still has till Dec. 31, 1958, to run. There are a lot more facts, too... the thermometer hit 102.3 degrees below zero at the South Pole last Sept. 17... water in the ocean depths isn't changing places with surface water as fast as it used to. We still have a lot of spunk knowledge coming, from ours when we get it launched, or maybe the Russians', if they'll tell.

Chillicothe Newspaper Ups Price to 10 Cents

CHILLICOTHE (AP)—The Chillicothe Gazette, oldest daily newspaper west of the Alleghenies, has raised its single-copy price from seven to 10 cents. It publishes no Sunday paper.

The weekly home-delivered rate advanced from 35 to 45 cents. The Gazette said the price increase was made necessary by "steadily mounting costs of production and newsprint."

University Fees Hiked

COLUMBUS (AP)—Student fees at Capital University here will go up $100 next September to a total of $1,210 per school year.

Judge Gets Certificate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Raymond E. Shannon, recently appointed municipal court judge in Cincinnati, Tuesday received his certificate of office from Gov. C. William O'Neill.

Corn Farmers Must Apply For Support

Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1958 on a farm where there was no corn acreage during the years 1955, 1956, or 1957 must apply for a corn allotment if he desires price support or any other phase of the Soil Bank Program other than the Acreage Reserve Program for corn in 1958, Luther List, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the present program, the production of corn in 1958 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make the corn produced on such a farm ineligible for price support in 1958 as well as affect his participation in the Soil Bank Program.

Application forms for a corn allotment are available at the ASC county office, January 31, 1958, is the last day such applications may be filed.

Picks Both Sides

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—One voter in Berwick township had his own ideas for his ballot in the fall elections here.

He printed, under his own title of the "live and let live amendment," the question "Shall We Have A Stop Light at Cross Keys?" After that he drew two squares, one marked "yes" and the other "no" and placed an "X" in the "yes" square.

Election officials threw out the ballot because it had been defaced.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem is that, being an orphan, I've always lived with my grandparents, who are very strict—my grandmother in particular; and grandfather is completely dominated by her.

As a child I told myself that things would change as I grew older. But now I am 18 and never have had a boy friend or dates or even close friends—because I've never been allowed to go anywhere unless an older relative is along. And grandmother makes sure that these relatives feel as she does.

I let myself believe that she does this only for my good. But now that I find myself friendless, I wonder. I used to dislike girls who saw their boy friends on the sly; now I envy their fleeting happiness.

To give you the picture: Once I went to a family party with my grandmother because, as she put it, "you should learn to be sociable." There I started dancing with a boy who seemed very nice, and grandmother was very gay until she noticed that I was dancing mostly with him.

Immediately she called me over, asked what we were talking about and why I was dancing so much with him. I explained that he was the only boy my age and seemed nice. In front of everyone she told the boy that he wasn't to dance with me again. We left almost immediately and I never saw him again.

I am very lonely and feel there can be no happiness for me because of this. I'm afraid of being forced into marriage as a means of escape. Every Sunday I pray for strength to go on, and ask God to show me the right road. I've kept these feelings inside and no one suspects. I've never sought advice before, and don't expect you'll have the answer—but getting this off my chest may help.

E. B.

DEAR E.B.: Your grandmother's heavy handed management of your rearing is about 100 years behind the times. But you seem to be a pretty sound person in spite of it. Maybe the fact that you've been well loved at home, if not wisely helped, has kept you in fairly good shape, psychologically.

It is high time for you to have friends your own age, both boys and girls; and opportunities, graciously provided by your guardians, to be a hostess and guest without self-consciousness. Your grandmother was rude and officious, in a show-off way, in calling you down and lecturing the boy, in the instance mentioned. Evidently she has a certain conceit about throwing her weight around. Maybe she feels she has a family reputation for being bossy, and rather enjoys living up to it.

As you sagely surmise, it isn't likely that an outsider can contribute directly to the solution of your problem. But it is constructive to spell out your dismay, and get an objective look at it—as you are doing here. This is an exercise in good common sense, which is infinitely better than brooding. It keeps you from getting bitter, ingrown and defeatist in feeling.

As for how to bear your present frustration—you need a reliable person, to help you keep a prudent pace, during the next few years. All adolescents need this type of safety valve, when dealing with home difficulties—to bolster their courage and self-confidence and hope for the future, so that they won't veer off into reckless mistakes, in questing for maturity.

Whom can you call upon? Your pastor? The family doctor? A sympathetic Sunday School teacher? A motherly neighbor? A psychologist on the staff of your nearest Family Service Agency? Explore your resources along these lines; and don't stop looking until you've found a real helper, with wisdom to share.

WARREN (P)—Two employees of the McAllister Dairy Co. were sentenced to 30 days in jail Tuesday for assault and battery on Jack Povhe, business agent for the Teamsters Union here.

Sentenced were Howard Scott, who drew a fine of $150 and costs from Municipal Judge James A. Ravella, and Harold Phillips, also fined $100 and costs. Wayne McAllister, son of Temple McAllister, head of the dairy, was fined $50 and costs for a similar offense.

Tigers Defeat Groveport, 48-42

Chilly First Half Showing Fails To Stop Circleville

By PAUL SMALLWOOD
Jerald Staff Writer

Circleville's cage Tigers, after shaking off a cold first half, went on to win their third game of the season, 48-42, last night at Groveport.

The Tigers had no pushover at any time in the game, especially in the first half when nothing went right. The Groveport five led throughout the first two periods, as much as 11-5 in the first quarter and 23-21 at halftime.

The Red and Black cagers finally found shooting room in the third quarter and they were quick to take advantage of the situation. With the third period only minutes old the Tigers knotted the score, grabbed a lead and then held on for the remainder of the evening.

Again it was the Tigers' big Bill Johnson who kept Circleville in the running as he gave opposing defenders an inferiority complex with his jump shots and rebounding. His production for the evening amounted to 22 points on 10 buckets and two foul shots.

BOTH teams were on the cold side in the first half as far as point making was concerned. In addition, both squads had many turnovers, with Circleville committing more than its share.

Taking advantage of the Tigers' miscues and bobbles, the host team protected its first half lead and set its sights on an upset. However, Coach Dick Boyd's intermission briefing apparently had a strong effect, for the CHS outfit looked like a different team the rest of the contest.

Conceding the first two quarters to Groveport, the Tigers finally hit their stride in the third frame when Johnson struck for six straight points to give Circleville a 27-25 margin. Jon Parker hit a foul shot, Mike Hosler connected from the side and Don Rowland and Johnson ripped in jump shots to increase Circleville's margin to 34-26.

After Groveport's Tom Miller dunked one from underneath.

Pacific Coast Conference Nears Death

SEATTLE (AP)—A sickly organization weakened by internal injuries and amputations, the Pacific Coast Conference is tottering like an octogenarian with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel.

The 42-year-old loop, cut from nine to six teams by the withdrawal of UCLA, Southern California and California last week, will soon be asked by Washington to dissolve by next June 30.

Prof. Donald H. Wollett, Washington's faculty athletic representative to the conference, said the Washington proposal will be submitted at a special conference meeting soon.

If the other five members of the conference refuse Washington's proposal, Wollett said, "Washington would have no choice but to withdraw."

That would leave only Oregon State, Oregon, Washington State, Idaho and Stanford.

A series of internal squabbles have beset the conference.

Early in 1956 the conference severely penalized USC, UCLA and Washington to the mat for illegal, undercover payments to football players.

The kiss of death was given when the conference at its winter meeting this month turned down a five-point program proposed by the Board of Regents of the University of California, which governs the Berkeley and UCLA campuses.

West Virginia Comes Up with New Cage Star

Jerry West Replacing Hot Rod Hundley as Mountaineers' Ace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If West Virginia's Mountaineers were looking for a college basketball star to replace the graduated Rod Hundley they may have found him in Jerry West. But while Hot Rod left 'em laughing, the scoring soph leaves 'em in a cold sweat.

It was West, tops with 28 points, who hustled West Virginia from behind and slipped through with a layup in the last 3 seconds of overtime for a 76-74 victory over Richmond in a battle of unbeaten Tuesday night.

West Virginia, ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll, now is 6-0 with a weekend date at the Kentucky Invitational Tournament along with top-rated North Carolina, fifth-ranked Kentucky and 10th-rated Minnesota.

Richmond, which led most of the way, fell to a 5-1 record as the Mountaineers, winning their 26th straight in Southern Conference play, escaped upset on a night of upsets.

South Carolina knocked off Duke 62-51, George Washington, winless in 11 games, whipped Wake Forest 67-45, Penn surprised LaSalle 67-66 in overtime and DePaul put on a late rally for a 60-55 job on Purdue.

Temple, struggling back after defeats by Kentucky and Cincinnati, whipped Texas A&M 60-44.

Detroit topped St. Francis (Pa.) from the unbeaten, 79-73, and Bowling Green won an 81-77 overtime victory against Duquesne.

Notre Dame overcame a five-point deficit late in the first half and went on to whip Loyola of Chicago 82-63.

Xavier of Ohio scored seven points in the last minute and 40 seconds to come from behind and beat Fordham 85-82.

Houston defeated North Texas State 76-69 in the Missouri Valley Conference opener for both. Oklahoma took a 43-38 victory over Tulsa. Oklahoma State defeated Oklahoma City 57-50.

Dayton, beat a zone and a man-to-man defense in a 58-41 victory over Ohio U. Unbeaten Harvard set a Crimson scoring record with a 102-77 romp against Northeastern. Columbia beat Colgate 68-63.

Indians, Giants Set Spring Card

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' spring training schedule against their traditional spring rivals will look about the same next year, except, of course, they will be playing the San Francisco Giants instead of the New York Giants.

The Giants are down for 21 games on the 34-game exhibition schedule—just about the same number as usual. Over the last 25 years, the Indians have won 162 exhibitions from the Giants, lost 152 and tied 6.

Pompey Is 8-5 Nod To Defeat Hinnant

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad and Clarence Hinnant of Miami, a pair of light heavyweights with plenty of knockout power, meet in a 10 round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Pompey is an 8-5 favorite in the nationally televised scrap.

Ranked the No. 6 contender, Pompey has a record of 23 knockouts while winning 29 of 35.

Ohio College Cage Schedule Loaded with Thrilling Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio college basketball teams had their share of thrillers Tuesday night. Two games went into overtime and two others were won in the closing seconds.

Bowling Green, paced by sophomore Jim Darrow, defeated Duquesne University 81-77 in one game that went into the extra period. The game was tied 68-68 at the end of the regulation play. It was the Bee Gee's sixth victory against a lone defeat.

In the other overtime battle, American University of Washington, D. C., won its second game from an Ohio team in as many nights when it inched by Ohio Wesleyan 84-80. Gene Richter led the scoring for the Bishops with 29 points.

In Columbus, Capital's Mike Outcalt dropped in a free throw with 23 seconds remaining to give the Lutherans a 65-64 Ohio Conference victory over Muskingum.

O'Malley Crew Has Trouble Finding Home

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Will Walter O'Malley and his band of harassed Gypsies find just another heartbreak in their quest for the famed Rose Bowl?

Or will the Pasadena city fathers, as they indicated in Tuesday's episode, roll out the red carpet for O'Malley and his Los Angeles Dodgers?

Is there any chance that O'Malley and the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission will work out their problems for that stadium, including the beer concession?

Tune in later for another thrilling chapter in "Just Plain O'Malley"—true life story of a man's search for a diamond surrounded by lots of paying customers.

A ray of hope was shed on the Dodger's search for a place to play when the Pasadena Board of City Directors voted 6-1 to enter into negotiations with the baseball club for use of the Rose Bowl for the 1958-59 season.

After the stormy City Hall session Tuesday, Mayor Seth Miller told the gathering: "We are inviting the Dodgers here if we can get a favorable contract."

The resolution simply instructed City Manager Don McMillan to work out details with O'Malley for use of the 100,000-seat Rose Bowl for 1 to 2 years.

Johnson Collects KO Over Sid Peaks

TOLEDO (AP)—Harold Johnson, rated the nation's No. 1 light heavyweight, battered sluggish Sid Peaks of Louisville to the canvas for a knockout in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here Tuesday night.

The Philadelphian, winning his 56th victory against eight losses, softened Peaks with right hooks and worked on his stomach for the first four rounds.

The fifth had barely started when the 29-year-old Johnson jolted Peaks with two lefts to the jaw. He sent blood spurting from Peaks' nose with a hard right cross, following with two hard rights that ended the fight at 2:58.

Browns' Brown Sets NFL Mark

Cleveland Gains 942 Yards in Season

Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals, in sixth place with 588 yards, will have a chance to advance into the top five Sunday when the Cardinals face the Pittsburgh Steelers in the final game of the regular season.

Cleveland's Tommy O'Connell is far out in front in passing and can be regarded as the champion. His average gain of 11.17 yards is 2.14 better than that of Eddie LeBaron of Washington, John Unitas of Baltimore is third with 8.47 and Lamar McHan of the Chicago Cardinals is fourth with 8.09.

Off 110 passes thrown, O'Connell completed 63 for 1,229 yards, including eight touchdown passes. LeBaron, who attempted 167, completed 99 for 1,508 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Bert Zagers, with a 15.5 average, leads in punt returns. He also owns the season's longest punt return of 76 yards.

Jon Arnett of Los Angeles, who has another game to play, leads in kickoff returns with a 28-yard average.

Hillsboro Leads SCOL

Hillsboro's Indians moved into first place in the South Central Ohio cage league with a 56-54 overtime victory over Washington C. H. last night at Hillsboro.

The victory gives the Indians a 2-0 league mark. Washington C. H. is in second place with two wins and one loss. Wilmington is third with a 1-1 slate. Circleville is next with no wins and one loss and Greenfield is in the cellar with two defeats and no wins.

Circleville's league setback came at the hands of Washington C. H. last Friday. The Tigers will be out to even their loop standing Friday night when they travel to Greenfield.

Star Gridders Visit Crippled Kiddies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Football players of the East and the West knuckled down to two-day drills today after their inspirational visit to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital here.

"That's the most heart warming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

Harvey Haddix Signs Cincinnati Reds Pact

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have come to terms with Harvey Haddix, the pitcher obtained in a trade with Philadelphia's Phils for outfielder Wally Post. Haddix, of Springfield, Ohio, signed his contract for the 1958 season Tuesday. He had a 10-13 record with the Phils last year.

Hamden Downs Laurelville

Laurelville, after winning its first eight games, ran into trouble last night at Hamden, Vinton County. The smooth rolling host squad turned back Coach Lonnie Miller's five to the tune of 69-51.

The Hamden cagers, by far the best crew Laurelville has faced this year, got off to a fast start by gaining an 18-6 first quarter lead and a 42-18 halftime margin.

Although the game was fairly even in the second half, Laurelville could not overcome Hamden's first half spurge. The losers outscored the Vinton Countians, 15-14, in the third period and 18-13 in the final stanza.

The contest was well-played with Hamden committing only two personal fouls and Laurelville eight.

LAURELVILLE'S Gary Allen found the range for 20 points to lead a losing effort. Bethel of Hamden was top man for the night with 24 markers.

Hamden also captured the reserve tilt, 46-26.

Ohio College Cage Schedule Loaded with Thrilling Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio college basketball teams had their share of thrillers Tuesday night. Two games went into overtime and two others were won in the closing seconds.

Bowling Green, paced by sophomore Jim Darrow, defeated Duquesne University 81-77 in one game that went into the extra period. The game was tied 68-68 at the end of the regulation play. It was the Bee Gee's sixth victory against a lone defeat.

In the other overtime battle, American University of Washington, D. C., won its second game from an Ohio team in as many nights when it inched by Ohio Wesleyan 84-80. Gene Richter led the scoring for the Bishops with 29 points.

In Columbus, Capital's Mike Outcalt dropped in a free throw with 23 seconds remaining to give the Lutherans a 65-64 Ohio Conference victory over Muskingum.

The Muskies were in a three-way tie for the conference leadership before they went into the game. It was their first loss.

Outcalt led scorers on both teams with 27 points.

In another thriller, Xavier turned on a seven-point scoring spree in the closing seconds of its game with Fordham in Cincinnati to nip the Rams 85-82.

Hank Stein sank a field goal to break a 78-78 tie and 50 seconds later he made good on two free throws. Three more free throw points were enough to give the Musketeers their fifth victory. They have been defeated once.

Findlay knocked DePaul out of the Mid-Ohio League lead with a 93-84 win on the Yellow Jackets' home floor.

It was the first loss for DePaul, which downed five other teams. Findlay also has a 5-1 mark.

In two out-of-state contests Bethany of West Virginia pulled out in front in the last two minutes to win a high-scoring battle from John Carroll of Cleveland, 105-95, and the Quantic Marines won the opening round of their holiday tournament by defeating Baldwin-Wallace 91-83.

In the Marine game, two Baldwin-Wallace cagers led the scoring, Wynn Hawkins with 31 and Ron Boswell with 26.

The only other game saw Oberlin remain among the state's unbeaten by downing Case Tech 66-43 in Cleveland.

Star Gridders Visit Crippled Kiddies

SAN FRANCISCO — Football players of the East and the West knuckled down to two-day drills today after their inspirational visit to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital here.

"That's the most heart warming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

Harvey Haddix Signs Cincinnati Reds Pact

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds have come to terms with Harvey Haddix, the pitcher obtained in a trade with Philadelphia's Phils for outfielder Wally Post, Haddix, of Springfield, Ohio, signed his contract for the 1958 season Tuesday. He had a 10-13 record with the Phils last year.

Johnson Collects KO Over Sid Peaks

TOLEDO — Harold Johnson, rated the nation's No. 1 light heavyweight, battered slugish Sid Peaks of Louisville to the canvas for a knockout in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here Tuesday night.

The Philadelphia, winning his 56th victory against eight losses, softened Peaks with right hooks and worked on his stomach for the first four rounds.

The fifth had barely started when the 29-year-old Johnson jolted Peaks with two lefts to the jaw. He sent blood spurting from Peaks' nose with a hard right cross, following with two hard rights that ended the fight at 2:58.

Browns' Brown Sets NFL Mark

Cleveland Gains 942 Yards in Season

PHILADELPHIA — Jimmy Brown, Cleveland's rookie full-back, plunged his way to the ground gaining championship of the National Football League.

The former Syracuse star gained 942 yards on 202 attempts for a 4.7-yard average and in rolling up 237 yards in a single game set a new league mark for the most yards in one contest, league statistics showed today.

Brown's nearest rival, Chicago Bears' Rick Casares, defending champion, earned 700 yards on 204 tries for a 3.4 average. Rookie Don Bosseler, of Washington, was third with 673 yards. John Johnson, of Detroit, ended the season with 621 and Tommy Wilson of Los Angeles had 616.

Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals, in sixth place with 588 yards, will have a chance to advance into the top five Sunday when the Cardinals face the Pittsburgh Steelers in the final game of the regular season.

Cleveland's Tommy O'Connell is far out in front in passing and can be regarded as the champion. His average gain of 11.17 yards is 2.14 better than that of Eddie LeBaron of Washington, John Unitas of Baltimore is third with 8.47 and Lamar McLean of the Chicago Cardinals is fourth with 8.09.

Off 110 passes thrown, O'Connell completed 63 for 1,229 yards, including eight touchdown passes. LeBaron, who attempted 167, completed 99 for 1,508 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Unitas threw the most touchdown passes, 24. He also tossed the most passes, 301, and gained the most yardage with 2,550.

In defending his title as the league's top receiver, Billy Wilson of San Francisco has a 52-47 edge over Baltimore's Ra. Berry.

Lou Groza of Cleveland and Sam Baker of Washington tied for scoring honors. Each finished with 77 points.

In punting, Ben Chandler of New York, edged Norm Van Brocklin's 44.3.

Bert Zagers, with a 15.5 average, leads in punt returns. He also owns the season's longest punt return of 76 yards.

Jon Arnett of Los Angeles, who has another game to play, leads in kickoff returns with a 28-yard average.

Hillsboro Leads SCOL

Hillsboro's Indians moved into first place in the South Central Ohio cage league with a 56-54 overtime victory over Washington C. H. last night at Hillsboro.

The victory gives the Indians a 2-0 league mark. Washington C. H. is in second place with two wins and one loss. Wilmington is third with a 1-1 slate. Circleville is next with no wins and one loss and Greenfield is in the cellar with two defeats and no wins.

Circleville's league setback came at the hands of Washington C. H. last Friday. The Tigers will be out to even their loop standing Friday night when they travel to Greenfield.

City Council OKs Street Light Pact with C & SO

A new street lighting contract between the city and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. was approved last night by City Council. It will provide for almost twice as much night lighting as at present.

The new contract was approved on its second reading. Under the ordinance, the city will pay a total of $11,567.50 annually for street lights as compared to the present $8,992 annual charge.

Columbus and Southern Ohio will install 35 additional light fixtures, including 51 powerful mercury vapor type lights in the downtown area. Most of the new mercury vapor lights will be installed along Court and Main St.

In other action Council accepted the plan for the eight-lot Lincolnshire Subdivision, located east of Lincoln Drive and north of Atwater School. Subdivider is the Knollwood Development Co.

An ordinance authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids for gasoline for 1958 was approved.

THE SOLONS adopted a resolution authorizing the First National Bank to switch deposits in the Federal Reserve Bank, Cleveland, provided the funds taken from the Cleveland bank are replaced by other securities of like amount. Council approved several appropriations, among them $200 for overtime pay for firemen; $850 for special police salaries; $362.90 for Health Department salaries; $100.76 for city solicitor expenses in connection with the city sewer project, and $775 for a sewage treatment research project on the best available methods of treating the city's wastes.

The legislators delayed action until the next meeting on a claim for $182.70, filed by the Brehmer Greenhouse for damage caused by sewer water backing up in the basement of the establishment.

Veteran Solons, Solicitor In Legislative 'Swan Song'

Last night was the legislative "swan song" for two veteran City Councilmen and City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins.

They'll be replaced next month by newly-elected city officials.

Ending an 18-year stint on Council is George Crites, 423 S. Court St. Moving out of public office after six years is Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St.

Ben H. Gordon moves from his Council President's chair to the mayor's office, replacing Mayor Robert E. Hedges.

Crites, long-time Council Finance Committee chairman, was named to the body in 1939. With the exception of a six-month period he has served as a lawmaker since.

Crites said last night, "I'm both happy and sad. I'm particularly proud to leave with the city in such good financial condition. When I came on Council the street lights had been turned off and the city was broke. Now we have money to work with and a balance at the end of the year."

CLIFTON SAID, "We've accomplished a lot during my three terms. It's been a pleasure to serve the citizens of Circleville and to work with this group of men."

Solicitor Robbins commented, "It's a good thing repudiated city solicitors don't die, they just fade away."

Gordon remarked, "I've been on and off Council since 1933 and I think this is the best Council I've seen."

Holdover members are Richard Penn, who moves up as Council President; Dudley Carpenter, councilman-at-large; Charles Kirkpatrick, 1st Ward; William Wyatt, 2nd Ward, and Boyd Horn, 4th Ward.

Moving onto the legislative scene are newcomers, Joe Bell and David (Red) Crawford, councilmen-at-large; Merle Huffer, 3rd Ward, and Robert Huffer, city solicitor.

Being 'Ex' Rose Bowl Queen Labeled as No Bed of Roses

SUNLAND, Calif. (AP)—Almost any girl would love to be a beauty queen, honored and admired. It's like "riding a pink cloud."

But what's it like when the reign is over, the crown but a souvenir?

It's no bed of roses, says a former Tournament of Roses queen.

Mrs. Margaret Huntley Main, star of the 1940 New Year's Day fete in nearby Pasadena, says she started having problems the moment she took off her crown and she still has them.

She told a newsman: "There's a letdown, but that isn't the real trouble. The worst problem is the way people act after you go back to school."

"People come up in the halls and make remarks. A teacher told me she'd like to have me in a class because it would be a pleasure to flunk me. Strangers ask for dates."

"If your seams are crooked, someone is sure to say, 'Is that any way for a queen to look?'"

"People compare you with other queens—say how much prettier they were. Sometimes there are comments like, 'Is that the queen? How did she get it?'"

"You begin to feel self-conscious and it stays with you. Pretty soon you're afraid of people. They seem so critical. You think twice before you go to the store in jeans. If you do, someone is sure to spot you and say, 'Look at her! She's some queen!'"

Mrs. Main is the wife of a Lockheed aircraft executive and has four children, Linda, 16; Johnny, 14; Martin, 8; and Sandra, 7. She says they moved to Sunland partly because of her Rose queen past.

If she had it to do over again, would she enter the annual queen competition at Pasadena City College? "Yes," she said. "The problems are only a small part of it. Most of it is fun and I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

Chickens close their eyes from the bottom up.

Negro County To Be Dissolved

Alabama Whites Fear Domination by Blacks

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Alabama voters have authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than see it come under Negro domination.

The decision came in Tuesday's election on 25 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

It reflects the Deep South's fear that the civil rights bill enacted by the last Congress to enforce voting rights may lead to Negro political control of local governments. Macon County's whites are outnumbered 7-1.

The county may now be abolished by legislative act and its territory added to adjoining counties where whites are in the majority.

Returns from 1,690 of the state's 2,700 boxes gave 51,478 for the Macon amendment to 36,820 against.

Macon's County seat, Tuskegee, is the home of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro college. The Legislature this year narrowed Tuskegee's city limits to exclude most Negro voters. The town's white-owned businesses then were boycotted by Negro residents.

THE MACON amendment came from its own state senator, Sam Englehardt, who is executive secretary of the Alabama Assn. of Citizens Councils, a segregationist organization.

The only organized opposition against the amendment was a last-minute appeal by the Tuskegee Civic Assn., a Negro organization. It said the proposal was a device to maintain "an undemocratic system of social relationships, a system which cannot be justified morally or politically."

Englehardt said the Negro majority in his county, with the help of the new federal civil rights law, might be able to elect Negroes to county office.

Ex-Circleville Man Elected by Ohio Cannery

Clark is the son of Mrs. Wilson R. Clark and the late Mr. Clark. Clark was born and raised in Circleville before transferring to Winorr's Wauseon plant as manager.

The baby, her second, is a boy. (International)

No Trace Yet Found Of Missing Ohioan

CARMEL, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's deputy Ted Cross reported Tuesday no trace has been found of Richard B. Cunningham, 29, a social science teacher and son of an Akron, Ohio, police captain.

Cunningham failed to show up for his classes at Monterey Union High School Monday. Cross said his car was found at the Ocean Queen Beach parking lot later Monday. In it were Cunningham's clothing, a billfold and shoes.

Probers Ponder Tennessee 'Fix'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackety hearings turned today to new allegations of a payoff to "fix" a criminal case in Tennessee.

Glenn W. Smith, Tennessee Teamsters Union boss, refused to say whether any part of an alleged $18,500 payment by his union went to Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga to kill a conspiracy indictment against Smith and 12 other Teamster officials.

The investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) announced it would explore this case more deeply, then shift to another said to involve allegations of a payoff.

McClellan invited the judge to attend the hearings and reply to any derogatory testimony mentioning him. Kennedy said the opportunity is still open, but that his last word from the judge was that Schoolfield did not plan to come to the hearing.

In Chattanooga, Schoolfield said that "I don't want to appear reluctant to comment, but I want to have a chance to read all that was reportedly said at the hearing before making any statement."

SUMMONED FOR questioning today was Hubert L. Boling, secretary - treasurer of Chattanooga Teamsters Local 515.

Boling was one of 13 defendants, all officials or members of Local 515, who had been charged with conspiring to commit violence in a labor dispute. In 1953 Judge Schoolfield ordered a jury to acquit 12 of the 13 defendants. The 13th had left the state and never was tried.

The previous year, Schoolfield had dismissed the indictment against the 13, but the Tennessee Supreme Court reversed this ruling and ordered the case tried.

Lavern Duffy, a committee investigator, testified he has seen a memorandum in which a federal tax investigator quoted Boling as stating money had been "passed" to get the indictment quashed.

Duffy said Teamster records which might show what happened to $18,500 drawn from Local 515's bank account July 5, 1951, have been destroyed. This withdrawal was five days before Smith and the others had been scheduled to go on trial before Schoolfield.

Being 'Ex' Rose Bowl Queen Labeled as No Bed of Roses

SUNLAND, Calif. - Almost any girl would love to be a beauty queen, honored and admired. It's like "riding a pink cloud."

But what's it like when the reign is over, the crown but a souvenir?

It's no bed of roses, says a former Tournament of Roses queen.

Mrs. Margaret Huntley Main, star of the 1940 New Year's Day fete in nearby Pasadena, says she started having problems the moment she took off her crown and she still has them.

She told a newsman: "There's a letdown, but that isn't the real trouble. The worst problem is the way people act after you go back to school."

"People come up in the halls and make remarks. A teacher told me she'd like to have me in a class because it would be a pleasure to flunk me. Strangers ask for dates."

If your seams are crooked,

someone is sure to say, "Is that any way for a queen to look?"

"People compare you with other queens—say how much prettier they were. Sometimes there are comments like, 'Is that the queen? How did she get it?'"

"You begin to feel self-conscious and it stays with you. Pretty soon you're afraid of people. They seem so critical. You think twice before you go to the store in jeans. If you do, someone is sure to spot you and say, 'Look at her! She's some queen!'"

Mrs. Main is the wife of a Lockheed aircraft executive and has four children, Linda, 16; Johnny, 14; Martin, 8; and Sandra, 7. She says they moved to Sunland partly because of her Rose queen past.

If she had it to do over again, would she enter the annual queen competition at Pasadena City College?

"Yes," she said. "The problems are only a small part of it. Most of it is fun and I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

Chickens close their eyes from the bottom up.

Negro County To Be Dissolved

Alabama Whites Fear Domination by Blacks

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. - Alabama voters have authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than see it come under Negro domination.

The decision came in Tuesday's election on 25 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

It reflects the Deep South's fear that the civil rights bill enacted by the last Congress to enforce voting rights may lead to Negro political control of local governments. Macon County's whites are outnumbered 7-1.

The county may now be abolished by legislative act and its territory added to adjoining counties where whites are in the majority.

Returns from 1,690 of the state's 2,700 boxes gave 51,478 for the Macon amendment to 36,820 against.

Macon's County seat, Tuskegee, is the home of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro college. The Legislature this year narrowed Tuskegee's city limits to exclude most Negro voters. The town's white-owned businesses then were boycotted by Negro residents.

THE MACON amendment came from its own state senator, Sam Englehardt, who is executive secretary of the Alabama Assn. of Citizens Councils, a segregationist organization.

The only organized opposition against the amendment was a last-minute appeal by the Tuskegee Civic Assn., a Negro organization. It said the proposal was a device to maintain "an undemocratic system of social relationships, a system which cannot be justified morally or politically."

Englehardt said the Negro majority in his county, with the help of the new federal civil rights law, might be able to elect Negroes to county office.

Probers Ponder Tennessee 'Fix'

WASHINGTON - The Senate rackets hearings turned today to new allegations of a payoff to "fix" a criminal case in Tennessee.

Glenn W. Smith, Tennessee Teamsters Union boss, refused to say whether any part of an alleged $18,500 payment by his union went to Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga to kill a conspiracy indictment against Smith and 12 other Teamster officials.

The investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) announced it would explore this case more deeply, then shift to another said to involve allegations of a payoff.

McClellan invited the judge to attend the hearings and reply to any derogatory testimony mentioning him. Kennedy said the opportunity is still open, but that his last word from the judge was that Schoolfield did not plan to come to the hearing.

In Chattanooga, Schoolfield said that "I don't want to appear reluctant to comment, but I want to have a chance to read all that was reportedly said at the hearing before making any statement."

SUMMONED FOR questioning today was Hubert L. Boling, secretary - treasurer of Chattanooga Teamsters Local 515.

Boling was one of 13 defendants, all officials or members of Local 515, who had been charged with conspiring to commit violence in a labor dispute. In 1953 Judge Schoolfield ordered a jury to acquit 12 of the 13 defendants. The 13th had left the state and never was tried.

The previous year, Schoolfield had dismissed the indictment against the 13, but the Tennessee Supreme Court reversed this ruling and ordered the case tried.

Lavern Duffy, a committee investigator, testified he has seen a memorandum in which a federal tax investigator quoted Boling as stating money had been "passed" to get the indictment quashed.

Duffy said Teamster records which might show what happened to $18,500 drawn from Local 515's bank account July 5, 1951, have been destroyed. This withdrawal was five days before Smith and the others had been scheduled to go on trial before Schoolfield.
